Extend Quarantine Period For Rabies In County

DOGS MUST BE KEPT TIED FOR 90 MORE DAYS

Stray Dog Recently Killed in Osborne Was Mad, Examination Shows

Dogs in Outagamie county must be kept tied for another 90 days, according to an order received last Saturday by Stanley A. Stalld, district attorney, from Dr. C. A. Deamman, state veterinarian, extending the present quarantine for that period.

On April 23 dogs in the county were placed under quarantine for 90 days. The order was extended last week on authority of the Livestock Sanitary board. Examination of the head of a dog killed early last week in the town of Osborne, indicated the animal had rabies, the state laboratory of hygiene reported.

Sheriff Fred W. Giese said Monday morning that he had not yet received official notice of extension of the quarantine but that his deputies would be given instructions to pursue the same course under the new order as under the old one.

Under the quarantine order all dogs will have to be confined or kept under leash and muzzle, and they are not permitted to leave the county. Any citizen may kill dogs that are found running loose.

The sheriff said that his deputies have been instructed to kill all dogs roaming at large but they are to use discretion in doing so. He said there was no need for a wholesale slaughter of the animals. Owners of dogs that are allowed to run at large are to be taken into court, the sheriff said.

DOG WAS "TRAM"

The animal which was shot in the town of Osborne near Seymour last week was a stray dog, according to the Seymour veterinarian who investigated the case and who is treating the animals which were bitten. The mad dog bit two other dogs on the William W. Ford farm. Then it crossed the road and bit a horse on the Bert Vanden Bloom farm. Finally the infected animal was shot by Sam Knox, another farmer living nearby, when it appeared on his property. The three animals bitten have not yet shown any signs of developing rabies, the Seymour doctor said, but they are being closely observed.

QUARANTINE MILWAUKEE CO.

Milwaukee—(P)—A 90-day quarantine order for rabies has been fixed for Milwaukee-co, Dr. C. A. Deamman, Madison, state veterinarian, announced today.

The state officer said orders for the quarantine will go out at once and that the ban will be in effect by the end of the week. Under the quarantine order all dogs will have to be confined or kept under leash and muzzle and will not be permitted to leave the county.

Attack upon six people by a mad dog in Whitfish Bay, Milwaukee suburbs, Saturday resulted in the quarantine. During the spring months 10 counties in the state have been quarantined for rabies.

The persons bitten in Whitfish Bay were treated with antitoxin at Mr. Deamman's office. The dog had rabies. No complications have resulted from the administration of the serum but the persons will be under constant watch for 10 days.

The necessity to administer serum caused a rush to Woodworth, Wis., Sunday when it was found there was an insufficient quantity of rabies anti-toxin in Milwaukee or vicinity. Injection of serum into 22 persons in Milwaukee last week lowered the supply in Milwaukee.

FOUR BANDITS ROB 25 IN ROADHOUSE HOLDUP

Milwaukee—(P)—Four bandits entered a roadhouse near here early Sunday, lined up 25 patrons and with guns trained on them gathered a lot of cash and jewels estimated at $5,000. They escaped in a car and trace of them was lost in the business section here.

The four men entered the kitchen door of the place and forced a cook to lead them upstairs, where, according to officials, gambling games were in progress. The patrons, six of them women and about a dozen men dressed in evening attire, were forced to march single file up the dance hall on the first floor. All were forced to face the wall.

According to officers who were called, the search for the robbers was hampered by the unwillingness of the victims to tell what happened. One man in a dress suit, they said, grabbed a towel, tucked it under his coat like an apron and pretended to be a waiter.

Sheriff Charles Reichenbach said there was no trace of gambling paraphernalia anywhere.

TWO KILLED, FOUR HURT ON CONVENTION VISIT

SUFFERS FRACTURE OF PELVIS WHEN MACHINES COLLIDE

Long Beach, Calif.—(P)—Two persons were dead today and four others were severely injured as the result of an automobile collision on a sightseeing trip preceding the sightseeing convention here. The dead are Mrs. Howard Ellsworth, 32, of St. Paul, Minn., and Harry Christian, Fargo, N. D.

Alfred Bungert, 27, Hortonville, Is Taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital

Alfred Bungert, 27, route 3, Hortonville, suffered a fractured pelvis bone and severe cuts and bruises when the car he was driving collided with a machine owned by Martin Stecker, town of Center, and driven by a girl whose name has not been learned, about 5:30 Sunday afternoon at the intersection of County Trunk A and a crossroad about one half mile east of Center Valley.

The Bungerts were driving south on Highway A and the other machine approached from the east. Both machines were forced into the ditch and badly damaged. Mr. Bungert was rushed to St. Elizabeth hospital where he will be confined for several weeks. Mrs. Bungert and a small daughter were not injured. None of the occupants of Stecker's car were injured.

Three persons suffered cuts and bruises, one so severely that he had to be taken to the hospital when two automobiles collided about 1:30 Sunday morning on W. College-ave. Eugene Tangway, 611 Island-ave, Milwaukee, was driving east on College-ave when his machine collided with a car driven by A. G. Dwyer, 319 W. Washington-st., which was backing from the curb at 203 W. College-ave. Mr. Tangway was accompanied by his wife and two Neenah men. Mrs. Tangway and the two Neenah men were injured by flying glass. The Neenah men are James Conneen, 35, 417 Nicolet-blvd., and Walter Poquette, 21, 151 S. Forrest-ave. The latter was taken to the police station and later to the hospital where he will be confined for a few days.

Miss Ellen Driscoll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Driscoll, 411 W. Sixth-st., received a badly bruised nose and other body bruises when a car driven by Miss Sylvia Sitrars, 527 W. Eighth-st., ran into a ditch on Lake-rd to avoid hitting another machine late Friday afternoon. A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Schuh, 805 S. State-st., was the third occupant of the machine.

NO STOCK DIVIDEND FOR ATCHISON ROAD

President Spikes Rumor of Immediate Attention to Declare Split

New York—(P)—President W. B. Storey of the Atchafalaya and Santa Fe railroad today spiked rumors that the road is planning a stock dividend in the near future. The stock was bid up nearly $20 a share to a new high record price at $226.7 on the New York Stock exchange last week, largely on the basis of these rumors.

The railway is in no better position to capitalize part of its corporate surplus than before the supreme court handed down its recent decision in the St. Louis railroad valuation case, Mr. Storey declared. Rather, he said, the situation is unchanged with the company unable to make any move in that direction until the interstate Commerce commission takes some action.

"While interstate connected with the railroads have jumped to the conclusion that the decision was a sweeping one in favor of the railroads," Mr. Storey said, "we do not know whether it was or not, or whether it will help us or not. We have no means of knowing just what effect it will have on the interstate Commerce commission's future action."

"We do know that the commission has given us our valuation of June, 1916, on the basis of 1914 figures and that it has been engaged in going over our accounts since 1916, in order to determine what our valuation for recapture was and is during each of the years from 1920 to the present time. A separate valuation each year is necessary because annual earnings were different. The commission has never told us how it will figure capital expenditures we have made during and since 1920. There is nothing we can do, nor any action we can take until the commission acts."

OLD PROBLEMS WELL ON WAY TO SOLUTION

Farm Relief, Census, Muscle Shoals, Tariff Big Unsolved Issues

Washington—(P)—With most of the old issues likely to be settled in the form of new statutes, congressional leaders are looking forward with mingled feelings of expectancy and satisfaction to what the regular session may bring them to work upon.

Of the old problems that have occupied congress for several administrations, only four remain and they are well along the way to being written into law.

Enactment of farm relief legislation is expected this week, and an agreement for a summer recess apparently depends on the fixing of a date for action on tariff revision by the senate. The house is counted on to pass the bill for the 1930 census and reappointment of its membership this week.

And Muscle Shoals, an issue in congress for many years, seems well on its way to join Boulder canyon, tax reduction and flood control as finished business for the time being, at any rate. The Norris resolution calling for government operation, revived in the senate, appears to have good prospect of becoming the legislative calendar either in the special session or early in the regular meeting of congress.

Thereafter, no major political issues are in sight to worry congress for four years, although members will watch closely the operations of the farm and tariff bills as they go into effect. President Hoover's law enforcement commission also will come under close scrutiny, with some of the leaders looking for campaign thunder from that source three years hence.

NEW ISSUES EXPECTED

While there is satisfaction among the leaders on Capitol Hill that most of the major political and legislative issues have been cleared away, there also is expectancy. Some of them feel that new ones always arise when the old problems have been neatly tucked away between the covers of law books.

Representative Tilton of Connecticut, the house majority leader, considers that one of the great duties of congress is the preparation and passage of the big appropriation bills which keep the government departments supplied with funds. These, he feels, are alone sufficient to keep congress busy.

"I would like to see a session in which that was the principal task," he said. "In that event, congress could pass the big supply bills and get away early. I sometimes think we legislate too much and that it is not to the best interest of the country always to have a session of congress hanging over its head."

Representative Garner of Texas, the house minority leader, believes, however, that "there will always be something for congress to work on that it regards as important."

"Inland waterways development probably will come up at the regular session, as might disarmament," he suggested. "If the senate passes Muscle Shoals, I believe the disposition of the house would be to finish it up quickly—if not during the special session, early in the regular session."

"The law enforcement commission, I see, will not make its report for a couple of years. I rather expect it to come some time in 1931 and be a live issue in the next campaign."

FISH SAYS VETERANS FACE ACUTE SITUATION

Washington—(P)—Representative Fish of New York, who is seeking an allowance of $8 a month to uncompensated war veterans in hospitals, holds that "an acute situation has now developed," because many veterans "have no funds of their own and their wives and mothers are generally working to support the children."

"It is becoming increasingly difficult for veterans, on account of the length of time, loss of data, and address of witnesses, to furnish adequate proof of the war origin of their disabilities," the statement said. "Many sick veterans," it added, "are forced to burn cigarettes and borrow money for stamps, telephone calls, bus rides and small personal necessities."

Representative Fish will ask for a hearing on his proposal at the regular session of congress in December.

OFFICER ARRESTED AT PRAGUE AS SPY OF FOREIGN POWER

Prague, Czechoslovakia—(P)—Captain of the Czechoslovakian general staff has been arrested here as a spy after a hurried flight to Dresden Friday and return.

Intense excitement and indignation has been aroused here over the incident which is believed to have been an attempt to betray the country's military aviation and mobilization plans to a foreign power.

The captain in his haste to get away Friday, left a brief case containing the plans behind him. Discovering his loss when he called back to the Prague airfield officials and asked them to hand the bag unopened to a porter for safekeeping.

When he returned to Prague Saturday afternoon he was taken into custody as a spy.

KING, PROPPED UP IN BED, OBSERVES HIS 64TH BIRTHDAY

Five New Peers Created by British Monarch at Celebration

Plymouth, England—(P)—The American cruiser Raleigh fired a salute at noon today in honor of King George's birthday. The vessel was dressed with flags for the occasion.

Windsor, England—(P)—King George V. celebrated his sixty-fourth birthday today, propped up in bed in the Victoria tower of Windsor castle.

The abcess at the old lung incision was not serious, his doctors said, appearing as it did eight days ago it added an inevitable doleful note to festivities which had been planned as thanksgiving for his majesty's recovery from his long illness of last winter.

Little change was made in plans for the formal celebrations planned in London, the "trooping to colors" by selected guards regiments remained in traditional style, the difference being that King George was at Windsor and that the 21-gun salute was therefore Windsor's lot rather than London's.

This was the first time, King George had spent his birthday at Windsor castle since he came to the throne 19 years ago.

His birthday honors list was in many ways one of the most notable he has ever issued. Five new peers were created and three elevations in peerage were given. Five new privy counsellors were created with 11 baronets, knights bachelor and knights of various orders. Each of the physicians who attended the king during his winter's illness was honored.

The outstanding award was of an earldom from Viscount Inchcape, the ship owner. He sold all the enemy and prize ships after the great war. W. C. Bridgeman, who is nearing the close of his 40-year political career as first lord of the admiralty, was made a viscount.

Among women honored were the Honorable Mary Pickford a defeated Conservative candidate in the general elections, for public service, and Miss Elizabeth Gordon for her services in nursing the king during his long illness.

ASK RECEIVER TO TAKE OVER BANKERS' CONCERN

Chicago—(P)—A petition for the appointment of a receiver to take over the business of Taylor, Ewart and Company, investment bankers, is expected to be filed in federal court today by Chapman and Cutler, counsel for the investment firm.

The attorneys said the firm was solvent and that a receiver would be able to liquidate its assets and meet all liabilities which were estimated to be between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000. It was indicated that the Chicago Title and Trust company would be named the receiver.

Taylor, Ewart and Company, who did a $50,000,000 business last year, was forced to suspend all operations last Saturday subsequent to the action of its New York and Chicago banks in calling in their demand loans. The loans amounted to about $4,000,000.

The investment firm, established in 1911 had ten branch offices and was regarded as one of the leaders in its field. The action of the banks completely surprised the concern, B. F. Taylor chairman of the board said. He stated, however, that if the banks cooperated the firm would be able to meet all obligations without loss to a single firm or individual.

Lieut. Gov. William S. Youngman said: "Rogers is all wrong. I have seen lives shipwrecked by too much front. The most valuable thing to a young man is modesty and people who live and fire young men are keen to look for it."

The Harvard Crimson, undergraduate daily, said: "It is little short of astonishing that a man belonging to a profession usually considered the represent the sternest of realism should have fallen for the vagaries of the 'right crowd.'"

"Perhaps the boys at Technology have not had the time to frequent the dance halls of the Back Bay and so discover that the boss' daughter and his stenographer are sisters under a very thin skin. At any rate this native belief in 'the right kind' of wife as a stepping stone to the happy life hardly does credit to an intellect which has seen many years over the exact sciences."

SWIMMING POOL WON'T OPEN UNTIL THURSDAY

The pool was to have been opened Monday morning, but it was painted last week, and the paint has not yet dried sufficiently. The cooler weather of the past few days has not increased the desire to swim, and the postponement of the opening date probably will not be noticed, it was pointed out.

SIX SENATE GROUPS ARE BUSY ROUNDING OUT THEIR LABORS

Rush Work Still Remaining Unfinished—Important Projects Up

Washington (AP)—Six senate committees are making plans to rush on with the work still ahead of them. Only one is likely to have finished its job before adjournment.

Committee hearings in the long-drawn out contest of William B. Wilson, former Democratic secretary of labor, for the seat in the senate to which, on the face of the returns, William S. Vare, his republican opponent, was elected from Pennsylvania in 1926, will come to an end this week.

Chairman Waterman and his election subcommittee have listened to the final arguments and have only to study a brief to be presented by David Wallerstein, counsel for Wilson. Then it will prepare a report and submit the document to the full senate committee. A report to the senate, however, is unlikely before the recess.

The patronage committee, which has been delving into disposition of federal appointments in southern states, is planning to visit Texas to learn more details of methods used by National Committeeman R. B. Creager and his Republican organization in the Lone Star state. Chairman Brownhart expects to uncover some evidence about what he describes as "the most autocratic machine I ever heard of."

MOVE INDIAN PROBE The senate Indian affairs committee is seeking authority to spend $15,000 to go ahead with its investigation of the government's treatment of the Indian. Chairman Frazier has announced that he wants the committee to visit seven western states, and he hopes that a representative of the Indian office will go along.

Action on the Wheeler resolution proposing an investigation of labor troubles in the textile industry may be taken this week. Two reports from the committee to the senate, to which the resolution was referred, are to be considered. The majority report, prepared by Senator Hale, Republican, Maine, will propose that the inquiry be referred to the Federal Trade commission and the tariff commission, and the minority report, written by Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, author of the resolution will recommend that the investigation be carried on by the committee itself. The Wheeler view is shared by Chairman LaFollette.

A resolution to investigate the operation of the Federal Reserve system and to recommend legislation to cure defects, if any are found, is before the banking committee. Senator King, Democrat, Utah, author of the resolution, wants the committee to appoint a sub-committee, so that hearings may be held during the recess.

Another investigation proposed by King, which would inquire into the authority of President Hoover to order conservation of oil, is pending before a sub-committee of the judiciary committee.

BALTIMORE AND OHIO WINS IN HIGH COURT

Washington (AP)—The Baltimore and Ohio and other eastern railroads connecting with western lines at St. Louis, won in the supreme court today when the court ordered the appointment of special master to determine the amount the eastern lines should receive as restitution of transfer charges paid by them on west bound freight crossing the Mississippi.

The supreme court in May, 1928, held that the west side lines must pay the transfer charges on certain classes of westbound through freight crossing the Mississippi at St. Louis. The east side carriers had been paying these charges. The special court refused to appoint a special master to take testimony and report the amount of the transfer charges which the eastern lines contended should be refunded to them. The west side lines asserted the transfer charges had not reached them but had been paid to the terminal association at St. Louis, and insisted that to recover them the east side lines must bring a new suit. The east side lines appealed to the supreme court, arguing that the refund was a necessary part of the original proceedings, and that the lower federal court should have taken all necessary action to aid them in recovering money they had been unlawfully required to pay.

MOORE VICTOR AT POLLS IN KENTUCKY ELECTION

Louisville, Ky.—(AP)—Complete unofficial returns from all of the counties of the Third Kentucky congressional district today showed John W. Moore, Democrat, victor by a majority of 1,057 in Saturday's special election. Mr. Moore defeated Homer Bellies, Republican. The election was called to fill the vacancy created by the death of Charles W. Roark, who had defeated Mr. Moore last November by 4,000 majority. Mr. Moore had served three years as representative from the district before his defeat. The complete unofficial vote was: Moore 19,613; Bellies 18,556.

HIGHWAY 2 CLOSED TO TRAFFIC MONDAY

Barriers closing county trunk road to traffic from Kimberly to Kaukauna on the south side of the river were erected Monday morning, according to Frank Appleton, highway commissioner. Grading of that section of the road, preparatory to paving with asphalt, was started last week by the Valley Engineering and Construction company which holds the contract for the work. Traffic is being detoured over the Little Chute bridge to highway 41 and south over another trunk road through Kimberly to Kaukauna. It is expected that the closing will be completed by the middle of July.

YOUTH IS DRAGGED UNDER SPRING TOOTH HARROW, BUT LIVES

Dragged several hundred feet under a spring tooth harrow joined to a tractor which was running wild, Anthony Weyers, 15-year-old son of Mrs. George Weyers, Freedom, is alive to tell the tale. He is in St. Elizabeth hospital with a puncture wound in the abdominal wall, caused by a tooth from the harrow, and painful body bruises, but his physician states that inasmuch as the puncture did not perforate the abdominal cavity he has a splendid chance for recovery.

The boy, who was driving the tractor which was drawing the harrow, was logged from his seat and thrown beneath the harrow. The tractor ran wild until it hit a tree in a woods two or three hundred feet away.

1 DEAD, HEAVY LOSS IN WYOMING FLOOD

Small Creek, Swollen Above Banks, Wrecks Havoc in Cheyenne Bottoms

Cheyenne, Wyo.—(AP)—Swollen by rain of cloudburst proportions, Crow creek, normally a foot deep and three feet wide, went on its first rampage since 1903 yesterday and took one lift, flooded about 200 homes in the Cheyenne bottoms and crumbled irrigation dams on the Herford ranch, 8 miles east of here. Property damage was estimated at $350,000.

Mrs. Saletad Rodriguez, a 70-year-old Mexican, unable to struggle to safety because of physical handicaps, drowned when the water struck her flimsy dwelling. Her body was recovered. A number of other persons were rescued by city firemen in boats.

Damage that will exceed $250,000 was caused at the Herford ranch where the entire irrigation system was washed away. Two large dams holding 1,500 acre feet of water and two small ones collapsed. A number of other reservoirs along the stream, including the Finsiden dam near the Wyoming-Colorado line, also crumbled. Prizes cattle, valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars, were driven from the ranch to higher ground when a flood warning was given by telephone.

A number of ranch buildings along the banks of the stream, were carried away and numerous houses in the valley through which it passed, were inundated. The railroad tracks of Cheyenne in the center of the storm were washed out and trains were rerouted over the Union Pacific.

COUNTY MOTORCOP MAKES 7 ARRESTS

Four Offenders Pay Fines; Others to Appear in Court This Afternoon

Seven motorists fell into the net spread over the weekend by Charles Steidl, county motorcycle officer, for unwary drivers who are paying no attention to county traffic ordinances. Four of the violators paid fines in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg Monday morning and three others were to appear in court Monday afternoon.

Five arrests were made by Officer Steidl when that many motorists failed to stop for the arterial at the intersection of highways 10 and 26 at Leppa's Corners Saturday and Sunday. Three of these, Norman Burmeister, Bondel, Jacob Tautges, Fond du Lac and J. M. Merkle, Appleton, paid fines of $5 and costs each Monday morning and Emil Bloom, Clintonville, and L. A. Tunnell, Blue Mound, Wis., are to answer charges Monday afternoon.

Arrested by Officer Steidl on a charge of reckless driving on highway 10 was fined $10 and costs Monday morning. The officer charged that Verstege had attempted to pass a line of traffic on a hill.

Lloyd Krause, Appleton, charged with driving on highway 47 with the cutout open, is to appear in court Monday afternoon.

START TRIAL OF ALLEGED FORGER

Expect Case Will Go to Jury Early Monday Afternoon

Trial of Lyle Wing, 23, Shiocton, on a charge of forgery, opened in the upper court of municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg Monday morning. The case is expected to go to the jury early Monday afternoon.

Wing is charged with cashing a forged check for $30 drawn on the Galesburg State bank. The check was cashed by Arnold Gradl at Hortonville. It was made payable to James Nelson and drawn by Ben Mills.

Wing is being defended by Miss Patricia Ryan, Appleton's only woman attorney. This is her first appearance in a criminal case. She was appointed to defend Wing by Judge Theodore Berg when Wing was without funds and unable to engage legal aid.

The Shiocton man, should he be freed on the forgery count, probably will have to face a charge of attempting escape from the county jail. He, with Gilbert Ahrens, Kimberly youth serving a six months sentence for larceny, recently were caught in an attempt to break from the county jail. They already had saved one bar through and several hack saws were found in the mattresses in Wing's bunk. Both of the young men have been kept in solitary confinement since the attempted jail break.

RETAILERS WANT ACTION ON LIGHTS

Claim Common Council Committee Has Promised but Failed to Act

Appleton retailers are dissatisfied with the progress of the common council street lighting committee investigating the ornamental light question but have found no way to force action, they reported at a meeting Monday morning of chamber of commerce officers. They have approached the council committee several times and have received promises but no action, it was alleged. The retailers want a lighting company representative to investigate the project and submit an estimate of costs so they may petition merchants to subscribe to a fund or start proper action to obtain the lights.

The committee investigating the express service in Appleton reported that beginning June 1, the local office delivery trucks were all motorized through the special efforts of W. N. Kimball, local agent of the company. It now is expected that express will all be delivered to merchants in the city by noon daily. The retailers decided to give the new service a 30-day trial before going further in the investigation.

BRAIN OPERATION MAY SAVE YOUTH HURT IN ACCIDENT

Despite the fact that a part of his skull was driven into his brain when he was thrown from a truck near the Medina School Saturday afternoon, Ronald Winkler, 10-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Winkler, Route 2, Dale, has about a 75 per cent chance to recover, according to his physicians. An exceedingly delicate operation was performed on the patient at St. Elizabeth hospital Saturday afternoon, when a piece of skull two inches long and three quarters of an inch wide was removed from the brain, where it had become imbedded.

The Winkler boy, together with seven other children of the Medina school, was injured when the truck on which they were riding ran into a ditch after skidding on some loose gravel. The driver, Gordon Schiesser, route 2, Dale had picked up the children at the schoolhouse as they were waiting for the annual school picnic to begin. Five other boys were badly cut and bruised, Donald Kruck suffered a broken arm, and Harry Hopkins a muscular puncture of the left leg.

PASTOR'S SERMONS FORCE HIM TO QUIT

He Publicly Denounces His Congregation for "Capitalistic" Views

Detroit.—(AP)—The opposition of a church vestry to a pastor who denounced its members and his congregation from the pulpit was believed today to have forced the resignation of the very Rev. Herbert L. Johnson, dean of St. Paul's Episcopal cathedral.

Dean Johnson announced his resignation yesterday from his pulpit and left with Mrs. Johnson in the afternoon for New York from where he will sail for a year to study abroad. The vestry, after a special meeting, announced acceptance of the resignation "in order that Dean Johnson might be given this 'opportunity' to go abroad."

Several weeks ago Dean Johnson who came to Detroit in 1926, from Phoenix, Ariz., publicly denounced his vestry as "capitalistic" and "the church of the bourgeoisie." The Protestant Episcopal church at Ann Arbor, Mich. He charged that he had been ordered not to sermonize on sex, nor to preach prohibition "when I know six of my nine vestrymen have cellars," and was prevented from inviting a speaker of the American Federation of Labor to address the cathedral congregation.

In his sermons since then he has dealt with dissemination of birth control and while declaring himself opposed to prohibition said "any man whose hobby it was to preach prohibition from his pulpit would find the pressure so strong that he would be forced to close his mouth or leave."

PROBE DEATH OF WOMAN AT DETROIT

Police and Coroner Differ on Cause of Death in Hotel Room

Detroit.—(AP)—Police and the coroner's office were at loggerheads today in theories accounting for the death in a hotel room Saturday of Miss Mary Baylis Lee, 27-year-old daughter of wealthy New York parent and formerly a teacher in fashionable schools there.

Dr. James E. Burgess, coroner, believes a broken neck, battered face and chest, scratched hands and arms sufficient evidence that the young woman was slain after a struggle.

Inspector Fred W. Frahm, head of the police homicide squad, announced last night he was satisfied Miss Lee died of heart disease and that her neck was broken while the body was being taken to the county morgue.

The body of the girl was found last night reclining in a neatly made bed in a position simulating sleep, by a hotel maid who entered the room to clean. Miss Lee was working here with a crew of Columbus, Ohio, magazine solicitors and did not appear for work Saturday morning.

It is believed she met death during the preceding night.

Because of absence of signs of a struggle a police physician made only a cursory examination at the hotel and declared death was due to heart disease. When further examination was made at the morgue, however, the broken neck was discovered and other injuries noticed.

Coroner Burgess said presence of a hemorrhage at the point of fracture indicated it was received before death. He ordered a second post mortem examination, to be performed today by two disinterested physicians.

Frahm said he learned from Miss Lee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Lee, that she suffered five years ago from an inflammation of the brain covering, an aftermath of influenza and subsequently was afflicted by convulsions.

DOUBLE SHOOTING BRINGS INQUIRY

Believe Man Shot Girl and Then Turned Pistol Upon Himself

Moorestown, N. J.—(AP)—The deaths of Miss Ruth Mowday Wilson and Horace Roberts, Jr., members of two of south Jersey's wealthiest and most prominent families, were under investigation today. The police theory was that Roberts shot the girl and himself.

Miss Wilson, the daughter of John O. Wilson, Camden financier, attorney and real estate operator, was found dying in her father's home yesterday. She had been shot twice in the head.

A few feet away on the floor, Roberts, a member of an old Quaker family of Moorestown, was found unconscious. One pistol bullet had entered his right temple and two had taken effect near the back of his head. Both died without regaining consciousness.

Clutched in Roberts' right hand was a pistol. Six bullets had been fired from it.

The pair were found by Miss Wilson's father in the young woman's bedroom. She was lying on the bed. Both were fully clad. There was no evidence of a struggle.

HALT SUMMER SPORTS AS COLD SPELL REIGNS

Summer sports were temporarily set back Sunday as the cold spell which started Friday night hung on. The frigid blast which swept across the state Saturday sent the mercury down to 45 degrees above zero, in which regions it hovered over the entire neighborhood. In the low lands in some sections of the state the mercury tobagganed to regions around the 40 degree mark, it was reported.

The weatherman's predictions for the next 24 hours are uncertain, and he speaks in generalities. Skies will be cloudy, he says, and maybe the air won't be so cool by Tuesday. Similar conditions are predicted for other central states.

At 6 o'clock Monday morning the mercury registered 50 degrees above zero and at noon the thermometer stood at 61 degrees above zero. Winds are shifting in the northeast, which is a good indication that weather conditions won't be so fair within the next 24 hours.

TWO PLAYS PRESENTED AT COMMENCEMENT

Two plays, "The Campfire Girls," and "The Mysterious Fiddler," were given by pupils of Sacred Heart school at the graduation exercises for 13 members of the eighth grade Sunday evening. The Commencement address was given by the Rev. F. L. Ruessmann, pastor of Sacred Heart church.

Zimmer, a recluse, was walking to Manitowoc after a visit with friends when struck by the automobile on the Manitowoc-Two Rivers highway. He suffered a fractured skull, broken arms and legs and other injuries. An inquest will be held here Tuesday.

ASK "CHANCE" FOR PROHIBITION LAW

eighteenth amendment, and an answer to it by Joseph H. Choate, Jr., member of the board of managers of the committee, were also published.

Marshall Stimson, Los Angeles attorney, asked that the committee refrain from using the word "lawyers" to avoid bringing the legal profession further into disrespect. He asked whether any members of the committee were retained by interests seeking appeal of the amendment.

LAGUARDIA ATTACKS

Washington.—(AP)—Contending that "dry" America consumes more Canadian liquor than does "wet" Canada, Representative Laguardia, Republican, New York, declared in the house today that the United States was asking Canada to enforce the prohibition law for her.

Canada, he said, was cooperating fully with the United States and "has done more in helping the enforcement of prohibition in the United States than the government of the United States has been able to do."

The present demands made on the Canadian government, he added, "are nothing but a confession of weakness on the part of the United States government as an example of the complete failure of prohibition."

The New Yorker said the Canadian government had faithfully fulfilled the stipulations agreed upon in the treaty of 1924.

"Now the United States government asks the Canadian government," he continued, "to change its law, to make that which is now lawful in Canada a crime and to deny clearance to vessels containing liquor bound for the United States and even to prevent such deliveries of liquor from the distilleries and warehouses in such liquor is eventually to find its way into the United States."

"Such a far fetched request of asking a foreign government to enact laws which are contrary to the law in their country is lawful in order to assist the enforcement of a local law has never been previously recorded in the history of the world."

"The United States now asks Canada to again amend its treaty by changing local Canadian laws so as to prohibit vessels from clearing from Canada ports carrying liquor to the United States," he added. "It is interesting to note that these vessels are mostly under five tons clear, for foreign ports are not required to obtain clearance papers."

LaGuardia added that the minister of national revenue of Canada has stated that 100 per cent of these vessels were American-owned and American-manned.

DEGREES GRANTED TO 60 AT DES MOINES U.

Des Moines, Iowa.—(AP)—Sixty graduates of Des Moines university received their diplomas today under a court order signed by Judge F. S. Shanklan of the Polk-co district court.

The diplomas were signed by President Harry C. Wayman of the university, and the faculty but did not bear the signatures of the trustees. Last week, Dr. T. T. Shields, president of the board of trustees, stated that the trustees would not approve the diplomas until they had investigated students' riots of May 11, during which the trustees were "rocked and egged," after it became known they had dismissed President Wayman and the entire faculty, as of today.

Sheriff Park A. Findley and two deputies were at the university today to see that the court order, requiring issuance of the diplomas, was carried out.

They left about 10 o'clock the graduates formed a procession and filed into the chapel where the commencement exercises were held. The program was opened with the assembly singing "America."

RAILROADS FAIL IN GRAIN RATE BATTLE

Supreme Court Upholds Interstate Commerce Commission in Its Ruling

Washington.—(AP)—The Santa Fe, the Rock Island and the Missouri Pacific railroads failed in the supreme court today in their contest with the Interstate Commerce commission over rates on grain from Kansas, Colorado and Nebraska to gulf ports.

Much of the grain is moved by Kansas City, Mo., or Wichita, Kansas, for milling, storage and cleaning, instead of taking the more direct routes to gulf ports. To prevent competitors obtaining the remainder of the haul from Kansas City and Wichita to gulf ports the three roads gave such traffic through-rates from the grain field to gulf ports with no stopover privileges.

Their competitors want to effect new rates to meet this change. The Santa Fe, Rock Island and Missouri Pacific met this move by making their rates from points of origin to Kansas City and Wichita, higher than the existing local rates to apply whenever the outward movement from Kansas City or Wichita, after transit privileges, was made over the lines of their competitors.

Kansas City and Wichita boards of trade and others protested, and the commission after hearing oral testimony cancelled the proposed new proportional rates. The Santa Fe, Rock Island and Missouri Pacific sought to enforce the new rates, but a statutory three-judge federal court at Chicago sustained the commission.

SIX MORE MONTHS FOR HARRY SINCLAIR

ed of the whole controversy, instead of merely answering the questions and sending the case back for action by the court of appeals.

Similar action was taken by the supreme court when the circuit court of appeals asked it for instructions in the case against Sinclair for refusal to answer questions before the senate committee. The government, in the jury shadowing case, insisted that as the shadowing had required a new trial it constituted contempt.

HAVE NO EXCUSE Justice McReynolds said the suggestion that the department of Justice placed agents to watch juries at the request of district attorneys, did not excuse the action of Sinclair and his associates.

After the decision of the lower court was approved, Justice McReynolds explained this would apply to all except the elder Burns. He said the evidence failed to show Burns had done anything to place him in contempt of the trial court and that the 15-day sentence imposed on him would be set aside.

"We think the trial judge rightly held it unnecessary to allege or show actual contact between an operative of the detective agency and a juror, or that any juror had knowledge of being observed," he said. "The reasonable tendency of the act done is the proper criterion. Neither actual effect produced upon the juror's mind nor his consciousness of extraneous influence was an essential element of the offense."

"That their acts were disclosed, and for which three of the appellants were certainly responsible, tended to obstruct the honest and fair administration of justice, we cannot doubt. The jury is an essential instrumentality—an appendage—of the court, the body obtained to pass upon guilt or innocence. Exercise of calm and informed judgment by its members is essential to proper enforcement of law."

The mistrial of the Sinclair-Fall case came after one of the jurors had been accused of saying he expected to get an automobile "as long as a block" when the verdict was rendered. Weeks of prosecution followed with Sinclair, Day and the Burns finally being adjudged guilty of contempt.

WIND INFLECTS HEAVY DAMAGE IN TWO STATES

Kansas City.—(AP)—Torrential rains, hail and wind caused damage amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars in Kansas and Missouri yesterday.

A severe rain and wind storm at Wichita, Kas., wrecked several buildings and a dozen airplanes at the Municipal and Swallow Factory airports, damage approaching the $200,000 mark. The Western Air Express tri-motored plane, bound from Los Angeles to Kansas City, landed five minutes before the storm struck and was demolished. The plane, valued at $75,000 was on the second flight of the new Kansas City, Los Angeles line.

Windows in buildings in Wichita's business district were shattered and trees were uprooted in the residential section. Scores of persons were injured slightly by glass and limbs falling from trees.

Reports received at Wichita indicated heavy rains and hail with strong winds, swept the entire southern half of the state.

BOB IS FIGHTING FOR SENATE PROBE OF TEXTILE MILLS

Public Uncertain for Several Days Whether La Follette Had Won Battle

BY RUBY A. BLACK (Washington Bureau of Post-Crescent)

Washington — The exclusion of press association representatives from the floor of the Senate caused the public to be uncertain for a day and a half this week as to whether or not Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr. had won his fight in the Senate Manufactures Committee for a senatorial investigation of conditions in Southern textile mills.

It happened this way: Last week the committee, of which the young Wisconsin Senator is chairman, voted to turn the investigation over to the Federal Trade Commission. The committee, however, was not prepared to report, or some of the members wanted to work out some changes in the probe resolution. So the committee met Monday to make its final decision. At that meeting the committee reversed itself, and the resolution as introduced by Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana was passed by a vote of 6 to 5, providing that the Senate investigate.

Then a rumor began to go around that Senator Henry D. Hatfield of West Virginia, who had changed his vote and thus reversed the former action, had made a mistake, and that he really intended to vote to turn the investigation over to the Federal Trade Commission and the United States Tariff Commission.

HATFIELD IS ELUSIVE
Newspaper correspondents immediately began sending into the Senate for Senator Hatfield to ask him about it. He refused for a day and a half to come out, and the press association men could not go in and demand that he answer. Senator La Follette, however, came out, but said he had no official communication from Senator Hatfield and hesitated to speak for him. The West Virginia Senator, who is a doctor, could not be reached at his office. At last he came out, and insisted that he had not demanded another meeting and another vote.

About that time, Senator La Follette felt that the public had a right to know, and showed newspaper correspondents, without comment, a letter signed by Senator Hatfield and the five who voted against the Senate probe, asking for another meeting.

Of course, he could do nothing but accede to their request and Wednesday the committee again reversed its vote, this time voting to recommend that the Senate turn the investigation over to the trade commission and the tariff commission for a joint inquiry on conditions in the industry and on whether or not a higher tariff on textiles, as provided in the bill passed by the House of Representatives Tuesday, is justified. The Senate also wants to know whether the textile workers are getting the benefit of the tariff.

Obviously, these two federal boards, both of them so overloaded with work that they are practically years behind, could not get to the investigation for a year or two, and then everything will be different.

HAS TOO MUCH WORK
The federal trade commission is now investigating chain stores, newsprint, and the power industry, all at the behest of the Senate, in addition to other investigations not finished and on top of its regular job of its regular job of seeing that anti-trust laws and fair trade laws are not violated. It has not even finished open hearings on the financial phase of the power investigation the most complicated part of the probe and the one which will show whether or not there is actually a "power trust." So far it has touched only propaganda in its open hearings.

Of course, Senator La Follette and Senator Wheeler are making a fight to have their minority report adopted, so that a Senate committee will make the investigation. They both question the jurisdiction of the Federal Trade Commission over such an investigation. As no question of violation of anti-trust laws or fair trade laws is involved, this commission was not set up to study labor conditions.

Senator John J. Blaine has introduced the following bills in the last week.

To provide pensions of $1 a day (including all government compensation) for Indians over 70 years old;

To provide larger pensions for blind and deaf and blind Indians;

To allow the Seminole Indians to take up certain claims on oil, gas and mineral rights in the Court of Claims;

To protect holders of industrial insurance policies in the District of Columbia in case insured employees die of disease not connected with the work where the existence of the disease was knowingly concealed.

To provide compensation and hospitalization for nurses in tubercular wards of government hospitals in case they become infected with tuberculosis.

The post offices at Waupun and Peshtigo will remain in their present quarters for five years and five years respectively, the Post Office Department having executed leases for the same quarters for these periods.

APPOINTMENT CONFIRMED
The Senate has confirmed the nomination of Homer J. Samson for reappointment as postmaster at Cameron, and James E. Finnerty as postmaster at Redgranite, to succeed C. J. Tire, resigned. It has not taken action, however, on the nomination of Thomas D. Morris for reappointment as postmaster at Cambridge, or John J. Frazier to succeed M. R. Munson as postmaster at Tremont du Chien, whose nominations were sent to the Senate the same day.

Representative John M. Nelson of Madison was interested in having Postmaster Munson reappointed, but he is not asking any patronage until

The Post Office Department freely offers it.

Edward J. Blum has been nominated for reappointment as postmaster at Monticello, Green County, and Nellie A. Fahey to succeed L. J. Riley as postmaster at Wilson, St. Croix county.

The nomination of Stephen J. McMahon of Milwaukee as member of the United States Board of Tax Appeals met no opposition from the Wisconsin Senators, but several Senators from other state unavailingly pleaded with the Wisconsin Senators to oppose him, as they had candidates for the job.

MISS LENROOT HONORED
Miss Katherine Lenroot, daughter of Customs Judge Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin and assistant chief of the United States Children's Bureau, has been appointed chairman of the child welfare committee of the Washington Council of Social Agencies.

Miss Ann Hefty of Madison has been visiting Miss Lois Hull, daughter of Representative Merlin Hull of Black River Falls. Miss Hefty went on to New York City and Boston, Mass., after her Washington visit.

C., back to Cincinnati, Ohio, where she is state organizer of the Ohio League of Women Voters and editor of the league's organ, the Ohio Woman Voter. With her was Miss Ruth Lindstrom of Viroqua.

Miss Neprud will visit her home in Coon Valley in July.

Representative Merlin Hull of Black River Falls was one of the speakers at the memorial exercises held by Columbia Typographical Union, of which he was once a member, last Sunday.

Veteran Of '64 Says He Thought Case Hopeless

Was Confined to House With Rheumatism for Three Months — Sargon Restores Health

"Sargon brought me out of what I thought was a hopeless case of rheumatism and kidney trouble. Since taking this strengthening medicine I feel twenty years younger."

"My trouble started twelve years ago, when my kidneys got out of order. I had to get up several times at night, and not getting proper rest caused me to feel tired and lazy all the time. My eyes were bloated, my back hurt me, and I kept getting worse until I finally contracted rheumatism. I couldn't put on my shoes and socks, my feet and legs were so swollen, and for three months I didn't leave the house. I had tried nearly everything without results, but kept reading so many fine things about Sargon that I decided to try it."

"Sargon has done more for me than everything else I tried put together. My case was stubborn, but after eight bottles of this wonderful medicine, I am feeling like a new man. The swelling went down, the rheumatism was driven from my body and the kidney trouble cleared up so that I can now enjoy a good night's sleep. My eyes are not bloated any more and the pains in my back are gone. That tired feeling left me. Sargon gave me new strength and energy, increased my weight and toned up my whole system."

The above grateful statement was made recently by Martin Larsen, member of the G. A. R. who lives at the National Soldiers Home in Milwaukee and is highly respected by his friends and comrades.

Sargon may be obtained in Appleton from Victor's Drug Store and in Kaukauna from H. G. Brager.

PREDICT LOCAL PEOPLE WILL PAY HUGE TARIFF

Local people are expected to pay $95,940 a year in sugar tax if the proposed tariff of 24 cents a pound on Cuban sugar is accepted by congress, according to statistics compiled by the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages. Approx-would be sufficient to finance many important functions of city government, and would materially reduce local taxes. Members of the Bottlers association of this city.

REPARATIONS AGREEMENT
A complete reparations agreement has been reached. It will be signed this week. Germany did not receive all the concessions she sought and believed herself entitled to. On the other hand the allies yielded more than they hoped would be necessary to induce Germany to sign on the dotted line. It is a compromise, as is invariably the case with all great controversies subjected to reason. Germany should be satisfied, and so should the victors. There are losses in such a monumental war that can never be repaid, no matter who the winner. The allies could not hope to exact full recompense even for material damage. It is evidently a fair settlement, as fair as it was humanly possible to attain.

The greatest credit is due the American experts, headed by Owen D. Young. Had it not been for their untiring persistence and resourcefulness, the conference would have collapsed weeks ago. As mediators as well as ferrets they proved of inestimable value; indeed there would have been little hope of success without them. The Americans carried a viewpoint unencumbered by prejudices and fixed opinions, and were able to devote themselves exclusively to the economic and financial issues on their merits and in a spirit of justice.

The final results were made probable by the exigencies of a situation that would hardly admit of failure, provided only there was effective mediation. The conference has performed a great international service, of benefit to the entire world. For the first time since the war Germany faces a definite future and opportunity to work out her sound salvation. France knows what she is to receive as well as what she is to pay. All countries can now proceed on fixed facts. The real and permanent reconstruction of Europe is possible. There can be hardly any doubt that the reparations agreement will be ratified.

CENSUS REAPPORTIONMENT
The senate has passed the census reapportionment bill by the large majority of 57 to 26. The measure, which not only authorizes $40,000,000 for the 1930 census but also provides for the first redistribution of congressional representation since 1911, now goes to the house, where it will be brought to an early vote under a special rule. It is taken for granted it will receive the approval of that body against all opposition.

It is pertinent to remark that the 26 senators who voted against the bill in the senate registered a desire to violate and defy the provision of the constitution of the United States which requires reapportionment every ten years. Among this distinguished company we find the name of Senator John J. Blaine of Wisconsin.

On an estimate that the census will show approximately 123,000,000 population in 1930, a total of 23 seats will be involved in the reapportionment. Some seventeen states would gain in representatives. Those which would lose are largely in the East and South. Much has been said about opposition to reapportionment being based on the loss of dry seats in the house. This is mostly untrue. Prohibition has, as a matter of fact, entered very little into the question.

The opposition has come from the obvious disinclination of states adversely affected to have their representation in the house reduced. Politicians of both parties were ready to come to the assistance of these states. In 1920 this coalition succeeded in preventing a reapportionment. This action was so indefensible and has occasioned so much criticism of congress during recent years that it did not dare defy public opinion longer. Furthermore, the issue had a close connection with that of law enforcement in general and no administration at this time could afford to carry the burden of further flagrant violation of the constitution by congress itself.

THE HOUSE TARIFF BILL
The house has passed the tariff bill prepared by the ways and means committee. It is the highest rate bill ever framed. Instead of confining itself, as was originally proposed and as it would appear the president expected, to certain agricultural schedules for the benefit of the farmer, it undertakes a wholesale increase of duties. It revises, mostly upward, existing rates in every dutiable section of the existing Fordney-McCumber law, which it is to supplant. In other words, it is a brand new tariff bill.

All of the protected interests have found it possible under a revision, supposedly undertaken in the interest of the farmers only, to get in on their share of the spoils. If enacted the American people are going to have their cost of living increased on practically everything from grapefruit to granite tombstones. Whether the framers of this legislation admit it or not, it is based on the theory of excluding foreign goods. It is designed to destroy competition from other nations, to put a water tight wall around the United States barring all import commodities except luxuries and articles which are not produced at all or to any extent in this country.

If the duties under this act are not high enough to accomplish exclusion, there will be an effort made to put them up still higher. In other words, the protected interests in the United States want to be safeguarded in monopoly. And it looks as though they stood in a fair way of getting what they want. We do not believe this is a healthy policy for American industries or for consumers. We believe that when differences in cost of production are equalized American goods ought to compete on their merits, both as to quality and service, with foreign goods.

There are exceptions, of course, as where we are endeavoring to foster development of new industries, when a tariff may be justified that would prevent the entrance of any goods of the kind. But it is a well known fact that American industry is more highly and competently organized than any in the world. It is indeed so highly perfected for mass output that the total cost of production is less in certain industries than in other countries, notwithstanding a great difference in wages.

It is a mistake to subsidize American manufacturers to the point where they have a monopoly. It will inevitably tend to produce combinations, price-fixing, letting down in service and a lowering of quantity. The farmer is going to be in about the same position he was, relatively, before this bill was enacted, should it become a law. Some of his products are more effectively protected although in the case of certain dairy commodities the increased duty is inconsequential. On the other hand he will pay more for practically everything he buys, including foods, wearing apparel and machinery.

A revision of the tariff which would have been limited to certain industries, which are admittedly not thriving, including agriculture, would be legitimate. Whether higher tariffs can bolster up the lagging textile business in New England may be doubted, but the experiment would be justified. In the main, however, American industry was never so prosperous in the history of the country. Dividends as well as the prolonged speculation craze are proof of this, if proof were needed. Profits are beyond the most liberal expectations of a generation ago. We are the richest, most powerful, most prosperous nation on earth. There is such a thing as overdoing even prosperity. What can be the sense of gorging the profits of corporations that are tremendous, when the already overburdened consumer must foot the bill?

Seen And Heard In New York
BY RICHARD MASSOCK
New York—Forty-second street, one of the best known cross-town thoroughfares, seems in recent years to have exercised a privilege usually accorded women.

Apparently it has been changing its mind until after several seasons of uncertainty it has settled upon a more or less permanent appearance. The waist-line of Manhattan, its looks have been as variable as the waist-lines of fashion used to be in relation to the human anatomy. From one season to the next Forty-second street wouldn't decide whether it wanted to be in top-like Broadway or Fifth avenue, both of which it crosses to form two of the busiest corners in the world.

At last, however, it is finding itself. In appearance, as in location, it's between the two more famous highways of trade and travel.

STREET OF "POPULAR" TRADE
Visitors who have been away long enough will find from Grand Central terminal to Times Square a street more permanent in its outward aspect than it was a year or two ago. Mushroom shops have given way to stores that look as though they would outlast their leases, if not the public library on the opposite side.

The new office buildings raising their towers to the mid-town sky perhaps are partly responsible. At any rate, Forty-second is becoming a glorified sister of the other main cross-streets of business. Fourteenth, Twenty-fourth and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth. Only Fifty-seventh outshines it in fashionable dress and Fifty-seventh is a "class" street of art shops and luxury show-rooms.

Like its sisters, Forty-second has become a shoppers' path to popular priced merchandise. Shirts, shoes and hats, lingerie and candy, piano and radios and jewelry are displayed in its windows, over which are tea-rooms, dance halls and, of course, offices.

MEMORY OF THOUSANDS FACES
The upgrowth of mid-town offices has brought to this neighborhood a number of millionaires, but few as prominent as John J. Raskob, whose office is in the New York Central building straddling Park avenue at Forty-sixth.

These men of wealth now are counted among the regular customers of a news-dealer in front of Grand Central. He knows the faces and favorite newspapers of a thousand of his customers, but not their names.

"I can tell some are big shots," he said, "but I don't know who they are."

VENETIAN NIGHT CLUB
The movie version of merry-making in suburban New York is about to be vindicated.

A resort in Westchester county announces it will have "isolated tables and party nooks on the many little islets that dot its swimming pool" with gondolas to get the diners out to their tables.

At last there is going to be something really like a Cecil De Mille setting for the midsummer night revelry hereabouts.

Today's Anniversary
AN OBSCURE MERRIMAC
In American naval history the name Merrimac is associated chiefly with the ironclad Confederate warship which fought the Union Monitor in the world's first battle of ironclad ships.

A humbler Merrimac played a thrilling part in American history 81 years ago today. It was a commonplace collier to which clung none of the glamour associated with the south's unique Merrimac. It owes its fame to the fact that it was sunk. And not after a gallant fight against a stronger foe, but purposely, and by its own men.

Early in the summer of 1898, during our war with Spain, seven Spanish ships had been bottled up in Santiago Harbor by an American fleet. On June 3, it was decided to sink the collier at the entrance to the harbor and imprison the Spanish fleet.

Lieutenant Richard Hobson and seven seamen were entrusted with the dangerous maneuver. They took the ship to the entrance of the harbor, under heavy fire, and sunk her by means of torpedoes aboard. The ship failed to sink at the proper point, however, and the crew was captured.

LOOKING BACKWARD
TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Monday, June 6, 1904
Lawrence college was holding the second annual "country fair" that day at Alexander gymnasium for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.

Dr. L. H. Moore was to leave the following day to attend the Brand Olmstead wedding at Houghton.

Miss May Webster had gone to Florence where she was to visit friends and relatives.

Louis H. Keller had accepted a position with the Prudential Insurance company.

Miss Edith Bishop of Indianapolis, Ind., was in the city a guest of her sister, Mrs. G. C. Lipke.

A delegation of city officials of DePere visited the city that day to investigate the local water works situation. The men were to ascertain how Appleton was going to buy its plant.

A card was received that morning from Rev. W. J. Fitzmaurice, who had been visiting in Paris for several weeks.

TEN YEARS AGO
Monday, June 2, 1919
The fact that the German counter-proposals practically constituted a new treaty led to the belief that day that the Allied reply would not be completed before the end of the following week.

Sergeant Roy Hauerl had returned to Appleton after having been discharged from Camp Grant. Sergeant Hauerl served in the medical section at Raritan and General N. J. for ten months.

John Hollenbeck entertained ten friends at his home, Pacific-st., the preceding day at dinner.

C. C. Nelson of the Wisconsin Northern Railroad had gone to New York where he was to meet his brother, Archie, who arrived from overseas.

Miss Olive Davis had returned to her home in this city after teaching for a year in Maj. Idaho.

Mrs. S. C. Shannon, Mrs. H. P. Heckert, and Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Grubel had returned from a motor trip to Milwaukee.

Cinderella's slippers were really not glass, says an author. With George Washington's cherry tree declared false, the apple that William Tell shot from his son's head taken away from us, it wouldn't be surprising now if some one were to declare brazenly that there is no such thing as fair relief.

If you go into the stock market, always remember that a loss is a speculation and a gain is an investment.

Maybe one reason why we don't have women presidents is that few of them ever reach the required age.

Maybe we wouldn't have to have a crime commission if the still small voice hadn't become confused with the term speakasy.

Veterans of the World War shouldn't throw away their trench hats. There always will be friendly little games of bridge in which they may be worn to advantage.

THE PROTECTION OF X-RAY AND RADIUM WORKERS
Recommendations adopted by the Second International Congress of Radiology in Stockholm last summer, should interest all who work with X-rays or with radium.

Working Hours. Not more than seven hours a day. Not more than five days a week. Workers should spend off days in the open air and sunlight. Not less than one month vacation annually. (Except the long vacation, these rules should apply to everybody who works.)

Work Room. The X-ray room should not be below ground floor level, unless there is special provision for sunlight. All rooms, including darkroom, should have windows affording free admission of sunlight and fresh air. Work rooms should be properly ventilated, with both air inlet and air outlet to give cross ventilation. All rooms should be decorated in light colors. X-ray rooms should be not less than 250 square feet in floor area not less than 11 feet ceiling height. Dark rooms should be not less than 100 square feet floor area. Room temperature should be around 65 degrees Fahrenheit. Generating apparatus preferably placed in separate room.

Operator. Never should expose himself unnecessarily to direct beam of X-rays. Should place himself as remote as possible from tube. Normal eye should not detect fluorescence of screen placed in operator's permanent position in the dark. Tube should be surrounded as completely as possible with adequate lead equivalent, the thickness of which should be not less than 1 mm. where peak voltage does not exceed 75 Kv. and not less than 5 mm. where peak voltage is as high as 225 Kv. Operator should protect himself at all times by a screen of not less than 1 mm. lead. In giving X-ray treatments, operator should remain outside X-ray room behind wall with not less than 2 mm. lead equivalent, or a thicker lead if the ceiling falls short of the lead equivalent recommended. Lead glass of fluorescent screens and inspection windows should have equivalent values recommended for covering of tube. Where tube enclosure or screen lead equivalent falls short of that recommended, other walls, floor and ceiling should have supplementary protection for occupants of adjacent rooms. Protective gloves should have not less than one-half of lead equivalent front and back. Lead aprons should have the same minimum value.

Electrical. Floor of X-ray room should have insulating covering—linoleum, rubber or wood. Overhead conductors should be not less than 9 feet from floor, and should consist of stout metal tubing or other corrosion proof. Connecting leads of coronas wires should be kept taut by suitable clamps. Unless there are reasons to the contrary, metal parts of apparatus should be well earthed. Overpowered fuses must be used. Quick acting double pole circuit breakers should be used.

Radium Salts. The radium should be manipulated with long handled wooden forceps, carried in long handled boxes on all sides with 1 cm. (over one-third of an inch) all manipulations should be as rapid as possible. A screen of not less than one inch of lead should be used to protect the body when handling radium. Attendants should not remain in the same room with patients undergoing radium treatment. Nurses and workers employed in making up radium applicators should hold their jobs not longer than six months.

Small quantities of radium may be transmitted by post in containers lined with not less than 3 mm. of lead. Large quantities should be transported by hand in suitable cases.

Similar protection should be used in handling radium emanation, so-called radium "seeds," "implants," radon.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Cheer Up, You're Not Dying
My friends all say I am doomed to die of tuberculosis or rheumatism because I do not wear sufficient clothing in cold weather. (Mrs. P. J.)
Answer—If you are comfortable, the less clothing you wear at any time the better for health.
Chalk
Following a suggestion in one of your articles I asked my druggist for calcium carbonate or prepared chalk. He gave me something shaped like chocolate drops. Is this what you suggested as an antidote? Please advise me how to take it. (Mrs. McA. F.)
Answer—Yes. Take 10 grains—about as much as will cover a dime—three times daily.

A FOURTH WARDER REBELS
I hereby register an emphatic protest against repeated slanders and libels against the Fourth ward by certain parties and interests of this city. In the present campaign for the special election these slanders and libels have cropped up more than ever.

The letters of Messrs. Denstead and Schneider, (whether the letters were composed by these fellows or others who obtained their signatures immaterially) especially emphasizing this slander. Statements that the Fox river crossing is more hazardous than any other crossing of whatever nature, is libelous in view of the fact that less accidents occurred in my memory of about thirty years of crossing this river over South Onondaga bridges, than of any prominent railroad crossing in the north side section of the city. Further, the Fourth Ward is less susceptible to smoke, soot, train noise, down town distractions, than almost any north side portion of the city. The Fourth Ward is the most delightful section of the city in the summer because we get the south west breezes, less the soot and heat of the north side contaminated air.

The letter signed by "Schneider" claims 90 per cent of the homes are north of the river. We ask him or them to count again. Such poisonous propaganda can accomplish only one thing, and that has been accomplished. It has demanded a unified, cooperative effort on the part of the slandered part of the city to overcome such malicious done in the future. Watch the Fourth Ward henceforth.

Any statement or remark made against the Fourth Ward, whether east or west half, will be diligently challenged and rebuked from now on; and the necessary steps will be taken to protect our full interests as against those of any civic or organization who attempt to ride us for their special benefit.

In the coming special election we all must decide whether the city should purchase the Riverview Golf Course as a possible site for the Senior High School. I believe there are many residents of the Fourth Ward who care little whether this site is purchased for this purpose mentioned. In fact some of us believe the city is being "taken in" for a whole lot. The site is ideal

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON
BY HERBERT C. PLUMMER
Washington — Spike — a famous polo pony and the favorite mount of General Pershing — held the spotlight at one of Washington's smartest balls the other night.

From a loose box at the end of the long ballroom Spike surveyed the scene. All during the evening he submitted, somewhat bored, to being petted and fed sugar by the gay crowd.

The occasion was the polo ball. Spike and another famous polo pony, Hunter, were the honor guests.

Both of the horses saw service in France during the world war. Spike has been retired from further service at the age of 26. But Hunter at 25 still is going strong.

A mock polo game was the feature of the evening. While the game was in progress all traces of boredom disappeared from the two horses. They watched every move with keen attention and quivered with excitement at every sound of the referee's whistle.

BALLOON BUSINESS
If he is in the right mood, Col. Angel Maria Zuloaga, the military attaché of the Argentine embassy, can fairly take your breath away with the story of how he once risked his life in a balloon flight across the Andes.

Meteorologists in Argentina and Chile were mapping air currents. There was a dispute as to whether the high altitude winds over the Andes blew east or west.

Zuloaga and a companion volunteered to find out.

They would go up in a balloon at Santiago on the west coast of Chile and let themselves be floated by the high altitude winds. It was suicide if the west to east theory was wrong.

Five miles up they were blown by a 65-mile gale across the peaks of the Andes. Their point was proven. They successfully made a dangerous landing of a precipitous mountain and were reached, hours later, by a rescue party from below.

Not since that time has a balloon made the same perilous trip across the world's second highest mountain range.

A SENATOR'S SONG
At least one United States senator has a favorite song and does not hesitate to let it be known.

The senator is Tasker L. Oddie, republican of Nevada. His favorite song is "Sonny Boy."

Any time, he is sufficiently fond of "Sonny Boy" to move the request of a local radio station the other night that the number be included on the evening's program.

Aerial hospitals suspended thousands of feet above the earth by means of enormous balloons are suggested by a European scientist as a means of giving sufferers pure air and sunlight.

300 BATTLE FOREST FIRE IN NEW JERSEY

Tuckerton, N. J. —(P)—Although handicapped by a strong wind and lack of roads, 100 members of the state forest fire service and 500 volunteers early today succeeded in bringing under control a forest fire which for a time threatened this town.

The fire, which started near Munton on Saturday, was believed out last Saturday night, but it broke forth shortly after noon yesterday. Fanned by a high southeast wind the fire, spreading in fanlike fashion along a front almost a mile wide, destroyed over 4,000 acres of woodland.

COOKS FIND NEW VALUE OF SUGAR

Vegetables More Delicious When Cooked New Way

Two groups of women, all famous cooking experts, recently conducted a series of tests to find the most tasteful way of preparing vegetables. In every case, after the various ways of cooking vegetables were tried, the experts unanimously voted in favor of using only a little water and adding sugar in cooking vegetables.

One group of experts recommends this unusual recipe for baked apples and onions. Slice 3 medium-size apples and slice 3 medium-size onions into a greased casserole in alternate layers, seasoning with salt, pepper, ½ cup of sugar, and 2 tablespoons butter. Add ½ cup water and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) about ¾ of an hour.

The sugar adds not only to the taste but also to the food and energy value of the vegetables, so that they are not only valuable vitamin foods, but foods that furnish working power to the individual. Use a liberal dash of sugar, depending on the quantity cooked, with peas, lima beans, string beans, corn, carrots, beets, parsnips, sweet potatoes, squash, onions and tomatoes. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

LARGE AUDIENCE HEARS STUDENT SING RECITAL

"Di Provanza il mar" from "La Traviata," Verdi, as his most spectacular number. David Bruce Scouler, popular tenor soloist from Lawrence Conservatory, presented a recital before a large audience at the conservatory Sunday evening.

Mr. Scouler presented a group of French numbers, by Ferrata, Lahn, and Habey with much skill, and a group of modern numbers was sung with color and spirit. He sang his entire program with ease and clarity, and the beauty of his voice combined with a scholarly delivery made the program one of the most enjoyable student programs of the year.

Mr. Scouler, a student of Dean Carl J. Waterman, was accompanied by Miss Lucille Nelson.

THE NEW Saint Sinner

EVER since the day Tony Tarver had first driven up to the shabby little Ross house in Myrtle street in her own car, one of the first outward and visible signs of Tar Parver's sudden prosperity, the honking of her horn had been the recognized manner of her greeting. Two long squawks, three short ones, meaning as Pop Ross said: "Hi, there! Here's Tony Tarver!" And never once in those three years had it failed to bring Pop or Mom Ross or Sandy — all three of them, if they happened to be home. Until now....

Fearing a little dazed and slightly apprehensive, Tony scrambled out of her roadster and ran up the old, uneven brick path to the front porch.

"Where are you, Mom?" she shouted gaily, as she pushed into the warm, familiar hall. No reply.

"Funny!" Tony puzzled. "But maybe she's run next door to borrow some sage for the dressing, or something like that. Of course nothing's happened — unless — unless they got a telegram about Sandy, saying he was — hurt!"

The thought was so unnerving that Tony sank down upon the narrow, hard seat of the old-fashioned hatrack. Underneath the lid of that seat, mixed up with old sneakers and a catcher's mitt and Pop's and Mom's "arties," was a pair of her own rubbers — too small now, since they had been there since she was ten years old. Mom Ross would as soon have thrown away Sandy's baby shoes, stiffened with bronze paint and occupying the place of honor on the "setin' room" mantelpiece. As she leaned back against the cracked old mirror of the hall rack — she had broken it hurling a baseball at twelve-years-old Sandy — Tony's dizzy head rested against a stained flimsy garment, the disreputable old coat in which Sandy had made nearly all his flights. Had he bought a new one for this flight to New York, where he was to take part in a tremendously important conference about the proposed air-mail route? Was he — was he dead in it now on some far-away field?

It was no conscious act on Tony's part — that sudden pressing of the old coat against her cheek, her lips. But as if it were attar of roses she drank in the smell of it, the mixed odors of earth and oil and high adventure and Sandy Ross. Perhaps if another odor had not obtruded itself, Tony might have learned something more of what she really felt for Sandy Ross. But there it was — the unmistakable, nostril-flaring odor of burning fruit and sugar.

Mom Ross's Thanksgiving dinner cranberries were burning!

More familiar with the old house than with her own home on Serely Boulevard, Tony sped down the hall, into the dining room, wove a tortuous course through its ten-piece golden oak set — Mom Ross's pride and joy, since Pop had given it to her on their first wedding anniversary — and banged through the swinging door into the kitchen, beginning to fill now with black smoke from the burning cranberries.

But before she could reach the gas stove to turn off the flame Tony forgot all about the cranberries. For lying between the stove and the kitchen table was Mom Ross. Tony flung herself upon her knees, lifted the grizzled head, with its pallid face and closed eyes, and hugged it to her breast in a frenzy of love and fear.

U.S. POLICY IN CHINA WILL BE SHOWN IN NOTE

Hoover to Express Attitude of Administration to Chinese Regime

Washington—(AP)—President Hoover's first declaration of policy on the question of American extraterritorial rights in China will be made in a note to the Chinese government now being drafted by the state department.

The note will be in reply to a recent one from Dr. C. T. Wang, foreign minister of the Nanking government. Identical notes were sent to all of the interested powers at the same time.

Secretary Stimson has discussed the Chinese note with President Hoover on several occasions and the president asked that the final draft of the American reply be submitted to him for approval before it is handed to the Chinese minister, Dr. C. C. Wu. President Hoover spent a number of years in China and is well acquainted with Chinese-American affairs and deeply sympathetic with the aspirations of the Chinese to effect a unified nation.

Secretary Stimson is taking an active part in the drafting of the American reply which will be ready for submission to the president within the next few weeks. While the drastic change of policy on the part of the American government from that expressed by former Secretary Kellogg is expected, a more liberal attitude toward the Chinese by the Hoover administration is anticipated in official circles.

POINTS TO CHANGES

Dr. Wang in his note pointed out the progress toward unification which the Chinese have made since the Nationalist regime came into power and the steps which have been taken to comply with the interests of the American government from that expressed by former Secretary Kellogg is expected, a more liberal attitude toward the Chinese by the Hoover administration is anticipated in official circles.

CHANGES IN THE JURISDICTIONAL SYSTEM IN CHINA

Changes in the jurisdictional system in China were recommended by the commission on extraterritoriality set up by the nine power treaty signed in Washington in 1922. Since that time, the Chinese have been working rapidly to bring into being the changes in their jurisdictional system which they began to formulate nearly thirty years ago. They have already negotiated treaties with several powers for the relinquishment of the extraterritorial rights, conditional upon a majority of the powers negotiating similar treaties before Jan. 1, 1930.

The last step taken by the Coolidge administration on the question of extraterritoriality was to address a note on Nov. 22 to the interested powers asking their views on the suggestion of relinquishment of the privileges.

TO SHOW SYMPATHY

As it is now being drafted, the American reply to Dr. Wang's note will reiterate the Washington government's sympathy with the Chinese aspirations. In no manner will it even hint that the United States opposes the eventual relinquishment of the privileges, but will express a deep interest in the nationalists' desires.

Certain information will be asked, however, regarding the guarantees which the nationalists will offer to insure the proper operation of the jurisdictional system when applied to Americans; what guarantees of property rights can be offered, and what can be expected from operation of the proposed criminal code. Numerous minor points concerning civil jurisdiction and marriage laws will be raised in the note.

SHRINERS READY FOR CONVENTION

Three-day Program at Los Angeles Draws Estimated Crowd of 75,000

Los Angeles, Calif.—(AP)—A three day program was in readiness today for the opening here tomorrow of the fifty-fifth annual convention of the Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

Trains brought the last of a giant throng of shriners from all sections of America into Los Angeles, where it is estimated 75,000 will assemble for the festivities.

The program, produced by nearly 60 committees working under Leroy M. Edwards, potentate of Al Malaikah temple of Los Angeles, was estimated to have cost $500,000. This figure does not include an electrical pageant, a gift from the motion picture industry, which will be presented Thursday, the closing night of the convention. It is estimated to have cost $250,000.

The convention opening will be celebrated in the Los Angeles Coliseum Tuesday morning with the United States Third Coast artillery raising the national colors and firing a salute of 21 guns.

Uniformed organizations of the shrine will mass in a huge parade, which will wind its way from downtown Los Angeles over Figueroa street to the Coliseum. General Robert Wankowski of Al Malaikah temple will lead the brilliantly costumed marchers as grand marshal. The uniformed bodies of more than 50 temples will be in the line of march.

SOFTER COLORS IN WOMEN'S FROCKS

Gray Georgette, With Dark Blue Coat, Popular This Spring

BY AILEEN LAMONT
Copyright, 1929, by Const. Press
New York—In women's frocks the softer colors have supplanted the older hues to no small extent. For example the grays are popular. Gray georgette embroidered all over with faint blues and grays, and with a dark blue georgette coat, is a popular ensemble. Printed chiffon with faint designs of roses in soft shades of orange and yellow is another novelty. Pale primrose acts as the background for tiny clusters of embroidered flowers while cyclamen serves a similar purpose.

With these sorts of colorings there seems no sort of jewelry which goes so well as jade. In many instances jade green pumps and gloves also are worn. Another jewelry combination which is effective is lapis lazuli set in silver. The sets include a silver purse and a similar vanity box on a silver chain. With white frocks nothing is so popular as black onyx and brilliants.

The sun shades which will be used are of gaily colored shades in linen, raffia and canvas. Most of the sun shades have new shapes and are quite flat except for the curve right at the border. The handles closely resemble those of the umbrellas popular throughout the spring. The cotton shades show bold roman stripes.

There now are about 6,000 active credit cards on file at the merchants information bureau of the chamber of commerce. All cards of persons who have left the city have been removed from files, according to Miss Florence Becker, manager of the bureau. Appleton merchants have been very prompt in their effort to keep the files up to date. Miss Becker said the files now are in the best condition in many months.

SEVERSON ADMITS NO SURPRISE OVER REPEAL OF DRY LAW

Remove Laws Not Intended to Be Enforced, State Senator Says

Madison—(AP)—Repeal of the state dry law, which for 5 years has borne his name, brings no surprise to Senator Herman J. Severson, Iowa.

Severson takes the position that a commonwealth should repeal all laws it does not intend to enforce. Not that Severson wanted the prohibition law repealed, he would prefer that it remain on the books, and be stringently enforced. But he believes there never has been an honest effort to enforce either state or national prohibition.

Nor does Senator Severson believe it was wise to repeal Wisconsin's enforcement act until the Volstead law has been repealed. Without being fanatical on the question, Severson is an ardent and sincere dry.

"How can we tell whether prohibition is the proper solution of the liquor evil until both the state and national try honestly to enforce it? Prohibition has never been in the hands of its friends, either nationally or in Wisconsin."

Severson is a member of the Progressive faction of the Republican party, but makes as severe criticism of former Governor John J. Blaine's appointments of state prohibition commissioners as he does of the Coolidge and Hoover policy of placing Andrew W. Mellon in charge of national enforcement.

He concedes that Roland W. Dixon, retiring commissioner, made a sincere effort on his job, but he insists he went at it in the wrong way.

Senator Severson doubts if the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act will ever be abolished, so long as the Republican party is in power, because neither the Progressive nor the Conservative faction of the party will support such a move. Therefore, every effort should be made to enforce it.

SEYMOUR PRINCIPAL TURNS TO FARMING

Retires from Teaching After 35 Years in Profession

F. W. Axley, principal of Seymour high school since 1929, has retired from the teaching profession in which he has been engaged for the past 35 years. He will devote his entire time to farming.

When Mr. Axley succeeded Dr. Schmidt as principal of the high school it was an old frame building, and it was a school, with two rooms, assembly and recitation, attached to the high school. Two teachers constituted the faculty, each teaching eight periods a day. In 1929 this school was destroyed by fire and the present building was erected.

Since 1929 the enrollment at the school has grown from 50 to 145, and the teaching force has increased from two to eight. In 1914 an agriculture course and a commercial course were added to the curriculum. Vocal music has been taught for 25 years and for the past 10 years instrumental music has had its place in the school. A band was organized during the last three years.

Mr. Axley, a graduate of Oshkosh Normal school, taught in rural schools for three years before he took his course at Oshkosh and followed his graduation he was assistant principal in the West Bend high school for two years.

Dr. Caldwell's 3 Rules Keep You Healthy

When mesenchyma is first dug from the soil it is soft like soap. The apple tree and the rose are in the same botanical family.

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, for a remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a most valuable compound. It can not harm the most delicate stomach and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not appear of drastic physics and processes. He did not believe they were good for him, being to put into their systems, by a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use with a medicine like Syrup Pepsin which empties the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without giving and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation. It will let you have a different person. Get a bottle today, at any drug store, or from a mail order store, and observe these three rules: old age, do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not feel warm, the bowels open.

BELL TELLS GRADS TO FOLLOW COURSE MAPPED BY PILOT

Pastor of Methodist Church Preaches Baccalaureate Sermon

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The Rev. Virgil W. Bell of the Methodist Episcopal church of this city delivered the baccalaureate address, Life's Mission, at a service at the Grand theater at 9 o'clock Sunday morning. The speaker's talk, based on an old testament text, centered about the development of a personality. In it the Rev. Mr. Bell quoted the words of the apostle St. Paul, who stated that his impressions upon entering his manhood "I felt like one upon a sea of life in a vessel bound from whence I knew not and bound for I knew not whither."

In direct comparison to this the speaker pointed out the difference between the Christian youth of today who having a Pilot, knows well his course. Through this line of thought Mr. Bell asserted that the need of each is to map out fully our course, having for our ideals a certain aim and for all weather a trusting faith in the Pilot of us all.

Saladin, the great Mohammedan leader, preached the steel blade, borne in the hands of Richard the Lion Hearted the speaker said, but followers of Richard reminded the leader that the strength of the steel was as nothing without the arm behind it. Continuing in the same train of thought the speaker called attention to the praise given the poet Baxter. The poet replied to the praise saying "Praise not the poems but the arm back of the pen."

The idea that God should be the guiding influence guiding each personality, the speaker said, should be the ideal.

Music contributed by the school orchestra, under direction of A. M. Engen and invocation by the Rev. F. S. Dayton, rector of St. John's Episcopal church preceded the sermon followed by selections by the senior girls' glee club, Miss Ruth Thiel directed.

SCHOOL LIBRARIES ADVANCED IN STATE

Madison—(AP)—Wisconsin has gone far in the national scheme of school libraries, the yearbook of the American library association, made available here today, said.

Reading circle activities have gone far beyond all expectations in Wisconsin," the book said. "In 1915 it was prophesied that in ten years there would be 15,000 readers in 1925 there were 223,454 pupils and teachers who completed courses in reading. Wisconsin is now preparing adult reading courses in literature, history, science, home making, etc., to be incorporated in the reading circle activities. The Wisconsin law, which states that all school districts have to 20 cents per pupil is building up libraries."

Berlin—Plans have been drawn for the biggest movie theater in Europe, equipped with latest sound devices. The building will also house a big cafe and will be erected in a crowded working class residence section.

NEW TARIFF BILL TO HELP BADGERS, SCHNEIDER HOLDS

Measure Will Aid Wisconsin More Than Other Middle-western States

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Washington Bureau of Post-Crescent)

Washington—The varied products of Wisconsin farms and factories will benefit by dozens of increases in import duties provided in the tariff bill now under consideration by the Senate Finance committee, according to an analysis of the bill made by Representative George J. Schneider of Appleton.

The tariff is effective in keeping the American market for American goods. Wisconsin will receive greater benefits under this bill than will other northwestern and middle western states with less varied products, Representative Schneider believes.

Increases are provided throughout the dairy schedule except on Swiss cheese, although the rates are not boosted as high as the Wisconsin dairy farmers asked. Other farm products on which the duties are raised are beans, peas, potatoes, cherries, eggs, onions, sugar beets, and cattle.

Representative Schneider, co-operating with congressmen from other paper-producing states, was successful in preventing the Ways and Means committee from putting a duty of $4 a ton on crude sodium sulphate, or salt cake, used in manufacturing kraft paper. This by-product of other industry used by the paper industry is on the free list, and was kept there in the bill as reported. The committee, however, proposed an amendment establishing the $4 duty.

After Representative Schneider got busy, the committee simply "forgot" to propose this amendment on the floor, and the bill was passed with salt cake still on the free list.

STATE PATRONAGE SITUATION FIXED

Representative Schneider Still Left Out in Cold in Appointments

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Washington Bureau of Post-Crescent

Washington—The Wisconsin patronage situation has been settled, with four of the Wisconsin delegation restored to the good graces of the Republican party and the other seven denied access to the pie counter.

Those who will be consulted on the appointment of postmasters, census supervisors, census enumerators and other officials in their congressional districts are:

Representative James A. Trear of Hudson, who last year was given back his place on the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives; Representative Merlino Hull of Black River Falls, the "freshman" of the delegation; Representative John C. Schaefer of Milwaukee, who has aroused attention this year because his stentorian voice has frequently been heard in defense of Republican measures and against Democratic tactics; and Representative William H. Stafford of Milwaukee, Victor Berger's successor.

SCHNEIDER IN COLD
This leaves out in the cold the following:

Representative George J. Schneider of Appleton; Representative John M. Nelson of Madison, who managed the LaFollette Presidential campaign in 1924; Representative Florian J. Lampert of Oshkosh.

Representative Henry Allen Cooper of Racine, oldest member of the House; Representative Hubert H. Peavey of Washburn; Representative Charles A. Kading of Watertown; and Representative Edward E. Browne of Waupaca.

Of course, Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr. and Senator John J. Blaine are not to be given patronage, as they did not support the Presidential campaign of Herbert Hoover nor are they desirous of obtaining patronage.

The decision on restoration of patronage rights was made solely upon the basis of the support given Hoover, George Vits of Manitowish, Republican national committee member from Wisconsin, said in explaining the separation of the delegation into the sheep and the goats from the Republican point of view.

The matter was settled into a conference Vits and other Wisconsin Republicans had with the President some time ago, Vits said.

Vits was here Friday consulting with the sub-committee handling the nomination of James N. Tittlemore of Omro for United States District of Wisconsin. This sub-committee consists of Senators Charles S. Deneen, Thomas J. Walsh, Dem., Mont., and Senators LaFollette and Blaine turned over to this sub-committee objections they have received to Tittlemore's confirmation.

Mrs. Elizabeth Thomas has placed no objection to Tittlemore's confirmation, Vits said, denying reports to that effect heard in Washington.

PLAN EXAMINATION FOR POSTMASTER

New List of Eligibles Will Be Prepared, Committeemen Reports

BY RUDY A. BLACK
Washington Bureau of Post-Crescent
Washington—The Civil Service commission will be asked to hold an examination soon to provide a list of eligibles from which a postmaster can be appointed for Appleton.

The Appleton postoffice has been without a regularly appointed and confirmed postmaster for some time, and although an examination was held and three eligibles provided, no appointment was made. Recently Emory Crescent withdrew from the list, and not another examination will be held. George Vits of Manitowoc, Republican national committeeman from Wisconsin, said Mayor A. C. Rule is eligible for appointment, but the appointment is not to be made from this list, Vits said.

Fred Felix Wettengel resigned as acting postmaster when a postal inspector found certain irregularities in the office. Then W. H. Zuehlke was appointed acting postmaster. The Post Office department said today that it has not yet asked the Civil Service commission to hold the examination, but Vits said that he would ask the department to call for the examination soon.

MIDWEST SHIVERS IN SUBNORMAL COLD WAVE

Chicago—(P)—The midwest continued to shiver today in subnormal temperature and went back to topicals.

The temperature, which a few days ago was abnormally high, today was abnormally low. It managed to reach 50 degrees here yesterday noon, but had sunk to 47 a few hours later. In Detroit it was down to 40 degrees, at Marquette, Mich., 38; at Duluth, 34, at Des Moines, 46, at Minneapolis, 42, and at Cincinnati, 46. A chill wind from the northeast accentuated the low temperatures in many sections.

Nebraska was experiencing floods and a heavy rain last night threatened to send many streams out of their banks. Seventy thousand acres of land and part of the town of Salem, Neb., have been flooded, with the loss of one life. The water on some parts of Salem was seven feet deep.

PRICE EARNINGS RATIO IMPORTANT IN RATING STOCKS

Low Figure Is Favorable, Other Things Being Considered Equal

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright, 1929, By Cons. Press
New York—Of all the tests commonly used to determine the market position of a stock the most valuable is the price earnings ratio. By this is meant the relation between earnings per share and the market price. A low price earnings ratio is favorable but a high ratio is unfavorable.

If a stock selling at $100 a share is currently earning $10 a share it is selling for ten times earnings and the price earnings ratio is ten. If a stock is selling for $150 a share and the earnings per share are still only $10 the stock is selling for fifteen times earnings and the price earnings ratio is fifteen. Other things being equal the first stock is the better purchase than the second.

The difficulty in applying this yard stick lies in deciding what is a low price earnings ratio at any particular time. At present ten times earnings is a highly conservative capitalization of earning power. During the recent bull market industrial stocks sold from fifteen to twenty times earnings per share and the stocks of electric light and power companies sometimes as high as thirty times earnings per share. The trend in recent years has been toward higher price earnings ratios.

The rule is useful, however, in comparing the relative attractiveness of different stocks in the same group. Note that this has nothing to do with dividend rates or with income returns. It applies to non-dividend paying stocks just as much as to the dividend payers. If information as to earnings was always available and up to date this method of analysis would be more reliable than any other, but it has to be applied on the basis of the latest income statement and the trend of earnings may have changed since that statement was issued.

When a corporation reports only once a year the data are incomplete and unsatisfactory. Quarterly reports are much better and the monthly statements of the railroads and of some public utilities are better yet. The best that can be done is to use the latest figures and make allowances for possible changes in the interim.

Of Interest To Farmers

SMALLER POTATO CROP IS SEEN IN COUNTY THIS YEAR

Farmers Reducing Usual Acreage Because of 1928 Overproduction

W. F. WINSEY
Hortonville—According to Charles Schulz, route 2, farmers in his vicinity are reducing their customary acreage of potatoes on account of over-production last year and the prospect of a similar crop this year.

or planting larger acreages of cabbage, or are intending to try a field of cabbage the first time. Besides the low price of potatoes which is about 15 cents a bushel the high price of cabbage last fall has increased the farmers to make the change.

Lloyd Schulz, a son of Charles Schulz, who now is in charge of the homestead, planted five acres of potatoes last Tuesday. Twelve acres of corn that he planted two weeks ago is up and showing a fine stand. The present work he planted 12 acres of red clover and four acres of alfalfa for hay and 14 acres of red clover for pasture. He expects to plant peas, 27 acres of oats and three acres of barley. He expects to plant three acres of late cabbage about the middle of June. Seven acres of oats sowed early before the late snow storms is exceptional in stand and growth for this vicinity.

Charles Schulz is of the opinion that only about one-third of the usual acreage of potatoes will be planted in his vicinity this spring. He believes that growers ought not to abandon the raising of potatoes because the price happens to be low this spring and to hence to expect because the price was high last fall. In other words an over-production of cabbage will have the same effect on the cabbage market that the over-production of potato last summer had on the potato market the past year. He believes that shifting is a bad policy.

"At the present price of cows for beef which is from eight to nine cents per pound, cows being about as much for beef as they do when sold for dairy purposes," said Mr. Schulz.

FELD COWS WELL

In the east and about the big cities, dairymen who supply the cities with milk force the maximum of milk production by stuffing their cows with alfalfa hay and dry rations. This heavy feeding is not only reflected in a large milk production but also in the condition of the animals at the close of lactation periods. As soon as the cows go dry the dairymen sell them in the market for beef at a considerably higher price than was paid Wisconsin farmers for the animals as springers or fresh cows. With a part of the money received for a beef cow an eastern dairymen gets a springer or a fresh cow from a Wisconsin dairymen.

Mr. Schulz's idea is that under

ADVISES POTATO CLEARING HOUSES

Establishment of Such Institutions Would Stabilize Industry, Report

Madison—Establishment of clearing houses to stabilize the potato industry is suggested by H. H. Bakken, agricultural economist at the University of Wisconsin, as this type of a coop will be greatly strengthened if Congress passes the Hagen farm relief bill.

The bill pending in congress is an administration measure and will likely receive the approval of the president if it passes the two houses. It provides for a federal farm board which will have charge of a revolving fund of $500,000, that is to be used for aiding cooperative marketing associations. Under the terms of the bill, clearing houses, organized by growers and shippers, could borrow from the board. If at any time it became necessary to have more funds.

A clearing house as Bakken explained is a form of a cooperative association of producers and dealers handling a single product, or, in some cases, of products alone its purpose is to regulate the movement of product to market, distributing the goods in an orderly manner. It would suggest a minimum price from day to day, so as to avoid price cutting among its members.

In the case of potatoes, by keeping the shippers informed of the condition of the market, the clearing house, according to the economist, would prevent glutting of some markets and the skimping of others. The shippers would keep the main offices informed every day concerning the amount and quality of the stock received from growers, the cars loaded and shipped, destination of each shipment and the prices quoted on various grades.

Although the first clearing houses for farm products were established only about five years ago, they have facilitated marketing so effectively that they are now used by some of the most successful co-ops in the country. Bakken feels that a stimulus will be given to this type of marketing organization if the Hagen farm bill becomes a law.

Appleton's Veteran Bridge-Tender Pays Glowing Tribute To Konjola

Stubborn Complication Yields Quickly to Powers of This New and Different Medicine

MR. PETER KLEIN (Photo by Ross Studio, 206 W. College Ave.)

Hundreds of Appleton residents who know Mr. Peter Klein, 1719 South Jefferson street, this city, will be pleased to read the tribute this veteran bridge tender pays to Konjola, the new and different medicine. After all life teaches no more valuable lesson than to profit by the experiences of others, and Mr. Klein is enthusiastic about the merits of Konjola, the medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of which are the purest of roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. Konjola, which is sold at Schlitz Brothers drug store, 114 West College avenue, has become the most talked of medicine in America simply because it makes good. Because it succeeds when all else tried has failed in cases of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel troubles and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Read what Mr. Klein, enjoying a newly found health, says of this master medicine.

"Today I can turn the bridge stile with ease. My work is a pleasure, and before I found this wonderful Konjola I found in work almost impossible. I suffered for months from a combination of stomach, kidney and liver troubles. I was subject to weak, dizzy spells, and terrible headaches and pains in my limbs and back. Constipation filled my system with poisons and impurities, and my nerves were well nigh shattered. I tried medicine after medicine but none found the spot.

"My attention was attracted to Konjola by the many and sincere endorsements, and I decided to see if this was the medicine I needed. It surely turned out to be that very thing for in three weeks this wonderful medicine worked an amazing change in me. I am sleeping and eating well; haven't an ache nor a pain and my nerves are as steady as ever. I hear that Konjola is known as the medicine with a million friends. Well! all the world knew about Konjola when I do, it would have a billion friends."

So it goes, everywhere Konjola is put to the test. Here is a medicine of deeds, not words of performance, not promises. Konjola is sold at the Schlitz Brothers drug store, 114 West College avenue, Appleton, and by all druggists in this vicinity.

BURGLARS VISIT FOUR SCHOOLS BUT ONLY $1 IS TAKEN

Damage Caused by Breaking Windows and Doors Exceeds Loot Taken

Neenah—A wholesale burglarizing of public schools here occurred between Saturday night and Monday morning. All public schools but the Roosevelt school in the Third ward were entered. The amount of money taken from the four schools did not amount to more than $1 and that was found in the principal's desk at Lincoln school. The damage to the buildings amounted to a great deal more than the money taken.

At Kimberly high school entrance was gained through a basement window. Upon reaching the inside the intruders broke the glass and entered the office and pried the desk drawers and the book room door open and generally reached the place but secured nothing as the money is kept in a vault in the superintendent's office. At Lincoln school where the small amount of change was secured, entrance was gained through a basement window. Once inside there was little trouble in getting to the rooms as none of the doors were locked. At McKinley school the burglars got to the roof and gained entrance through the air trap on the roof. Here nothing was secured although the desks were ransacked.

At Washington school entrance was gained through a basement window and entrance to the several rooms is easy as no locks are on the doors. Police were notified Monday morning. Finger prints were taken and suspects will be examined.

MRS. CASSLER IS FACING NEW MURDER TRIAL

Suspect, Acquitted of One Slaying, Held for Killing Divorcee

Chicago—(P)—Mrs. Catherine Cassler, who spent 27 months in jail for murder, part of the time close in the shadow of the scaffold, was back there today with new murder accusations flying about her gray head.

A mesh of circumstances which began forming even before her release from jail April 30 has involved her in the inquiry into the death of Lammieola Soutar, the 24-year-old divorcee whose body, a bullet through the heart, was found deep in a swamp near Hebron, Ind., last Friday.

In the face of police charges, Mrs. Cassler has maintained a calm denial of any knowledge concerning Miss Soutar's death. She said she knew her husband, Truman, had employed the young woman as housekeeper during part of the time she was in jail, and that she had heard other things involving the two. "Cammie," as Miss Soutar was called, was said to have called on Mrs. Cassler in jail several months ago, taunting her with a story she and Mrs. Cassler's husband were to be married. Mrs. Cassler, however, said she wasn't mad at her for it. "I don't get jealous."

MATE REPORTS THREAT

There were several circumstances that police at Valparaiso, Ind., where Mrs. Cassler is held, were unable to explain the 40-year-old woman to explain Mrs. Cassler's husband provided the most damaging information. He said that three days after his wife's release from jail she had confronted Miss Soutar and himself, threatening them with a revolver.

Mrs. Cassler said she had not been near Hebron, Ind., for three years, but police pointed out that Hebron was her old home town, and they had three witnesses who claimed to have seen Mrs. Cassler there Tuesday.

Miss Soutar was killed with a .32 calibre bullet. Police found a quantity of bullets of the same calibre wrapped in a handkerchief belonging to Mrs. Cassler at the home of her sister, a maternal aunt, Mrs. Grace Strangham said Mrs. Cassler has had access to the trunk in the last two weeks.

Edward Cassler, the woman's 19-year-old son, said he had had his mother driving last Tuesday, but that had not gone outside Chicago. He said he saw a revolver in her possession, but the weapon has not been found. Young Cassler is being held for questioning. Another being held is a maternal uncle, Mrs. Crestor Johnson who identified Miss Soutar's body as that of the girl he planned to marry.

QUOTES MRS. CASSLER
Then there was Truman Cassler's story of going home last Monday night (the day Miss Soutar last was seen) and finding the place "strangely quiet with the missus and Edward acting funny."

"I asked her what was the matter," Cassler said, "and she said, 'you sweetie was here today, but she won't be bothering any more. She won't be breaking up our family. She's gone away.'"

"I asked her where, and she only snickered. There were stains on the bathroom floor. The place had been all washed up, but there were still stains."

Cassler said his wife and son went out Tuesday in the car and did not return until the next night. The next day, he continued, Mrs. Cassler was "very nervous and sick."

Edward, who Mrs. Cassler says is her son but who, according to her husband, was adopted, said he had told his mother of Cassler's relations with "Cammie" but that his mother "seemed to know all about it anyway."

A wrist watch, similar to the one the dead woman wore at the time of her disappearance, was found last night in the Cassler flat. The Cassler automobile was seized and examined but police found no indications that it had been used in the slaying.

Mrs. Cassler was convicted in May, 1927, of the murder of William Landstrom, a cabinet maker. She was accused by two accomplices of having planned the killing, which they executed. Landstrom's body was found on a wet, slippery pavement, and it was first believed he had been killed in a fall. A detective, however, noticed that though the pavement was wet, the shoes of Landstrom's shoes were dry. This led to an investigation, which brought about Mrs. Cassler's arrest.

She was sentenced to death but won a new trial 24 hours before she was to have been hanged. When her case finally came up, last April one witness had died and another refused to testify, the state being compelled to nolle prosequi the case.

FAVORS FEDERATION OF WORLD'S TRADE UNIONS

Washington—(P)—A world federation of trade unions is proposed by Matthew W. L. vice president of the American Federation of Labor in an editorial in the current issue of the American Laborer. He urges international organization "as a means of freeing present spheres from European influence and as a means of bringing world labor together without disturbing national tendencies and philosophies."

Pointing to the Elizabethton, Tenn., situation, where he asserts, "American troops have been doing guard duty over plants largely owned by foreigners," W. L. declares that "world unity of labor has become more imperative as organizations of capital have become more and more involved in international relations."

The proposal is put forward at this time he explains, so that labor movements of all nations may consider it before the next convention, in Havana in January.

TARIFF BILL MAY TABOO VACATION

nal vote is an important maneuver, though the minority in the senate will fight the loss of that important privilege.

It would not be surprising if opposition to a recess came from other quarters besides the anti-tariff group. Several senators have special matters which they wish to press for the attention of the country and this might be seriously interfered with if a recess were taken and then the attention of the senate concentrated on the tariff debate.

President Hoover is in accord with the house leaders who think that they can compel the senate to agree on the tariff on a particular date, but the chances now are that since Mr. Hoover has not taken an aggressive position with respect to the summer recess, his party colleagues will feel free to divide on the issue as they please.

Mr. Hoover was not particularly anxious to call a special session but pressure from the farm group compelled it. Now, although he has sympathized with the advocates of tariff revision it is not altogether clear that he likes the house tariff bill or that he would hasten the passage of a bill which will require so much time for study and for consideration by not only interests within the United States but foreign countries, whose retaliatory policies against American trade are already being made a part of a general tariff discussion.

SPURD UP WORK
Washington—(P)—Congressional leaders expect to bring their plans for a summer recess closer to realization this week by fulfilling at least two of the administration's pre-vacation requirements.

Spurred by the crash of wheat prices below the dollar level, they expect enough expert debenture advocates in the senate to join with administration supporters in voting for eliminating that plan from the chamber's farm relief bill to permit final enactment of the legislation in time to offset this year's crops.

On the house side of the capitol, one hour was allotted today for the discussion of a special rule intended to expedite consideration of the bill to provide for the 1930 census and reapportionment of its membership. A vote on the bill is expected in time to enable a conference committee to begin—and possibly finish—negotiations for adjustment of differences which may develop between the two chambers over this legislation, including probably a rejection by the house of the senate provision to replace the 100,000 census enumerators under civil service.

TARIFF BILL REMAINS
That will leave the leaders with only one major problem to dispose of—the fixing of a date for senate action on the tariff bill—before they will be able to decide whether they can move successfully and with administration approval for a short recess of a long one. That question has been put aside pending clarification of the legislative situation, in view of the opposition to an all summer vacation expressed by several influential senators.

Return of the expert debenture issue to the senate this week was regarded as practically certain in view of the progress of the joint conference committee working to bring the farm bills passed by the senate and the house into conformity. It has been taken for granted since the negotiations were resumed after the deadlock over the debenture issue that the senate group would yield on that point and recommend elimination of the proposal to their chamber, which voted it into the legislation over the opposition of President Hoover by a majority of three after a lengthy conference.

FIELD HEARINGS ARE PLANNED BY RADIO OVERSEERS

Members of Federal Commission to Conduct Personal Inquiries

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1929, By Cons. Press
Washington—Taking to the field to get firsthand information on broadcasting conditions throughout the country, the federal radio commission has decided to divide itself into "sub-commissions" with each member authorized to hold hearings in his respective zone.

From June 15 to Sept. 3 there will be a lull in radio regulations in Washington. The commission has declared a recess during this period but it has authorized the membership to sit both as commissioners and examiners in their own zones to conduct whatever hearings considered warranted. Attorneys, engineers, and clerical assistants will be available to each commission, at his request.

Wherever hearings are held there will be a miniature radio commission functioning, with full inquisitorial authority, but without the power to render decisions. Under the latest revisions must be made by the full commission.

In authorizing the "field hearings" the commission is taking advantage of the terms of the radio act which permit it to appoint examiners for the taking of testimony. There are now on file a multitude of applications of every description respecting broadcasting, and during the recess period many more will pile up. By holding, in the territory in which the applicant station is located, a hearing involving a station request the commission can expedite its work and at the same time save the broadcaster the expense of traveling to Washington.

Commissioner Harold A. LaFont will leave for his home zone—the Pacific coast area and far west within a few days. There he will confer with broadcasters, hold hearings, and otherwise engage himself with radio affairs. Commissioner William D. L. Starbuck, only recently appointed, intends to acquaint himself with the conditions in the first or eastern zone, while Commissioner E. C. Sykes plans to cover the southern zone. Chairman Ira E. Robinson, a Major General Charles McK. Saltzman will leave Washington, but have not yet made definite plans.

Under the commission's order, the general counsel, B. M. Webster, Jr., or any of its assistants are authorized to travel within the five zones to assist or advise commissioners in connection with hearings or for the purpose of making any investigations which may be necessary in connection with the legal work of the commission. The acting chief engineer, Captain Huy Hill, and the secretary, Carl H. Butman, are authorized at the request of commissioners or the general counsel to designate qualified employees of the commission to assist in the hearings and investigation.

Terracing experts are much in demand in Texas, where 3,000,000 acres have been terraced.

Orange Track Team Wins Valley Conference Title

Fords Chalk Up Second Straight Victory Sunday

NOSE OUT EAST BAYS FOR FIRST TITLE DURING 1929 SEASON

Wolfram, Batley, Kunitz Win First Places; Relay Team Also Cops

AN APPLETON high school athlete has finally beaten an East Green Bay entry during the 1929 season. Yes, Sir, and although the margin is only a half point, it nevertheless is a victory and when Coach Joseph Shields picks up his two pairs of socks and extra shirts and leaves for his home in La Crosse in a couple of weeks no doubt he will be feeling that the fortunes of a coach aren't too good after all.

For Shields' thin clad Orange tracksters pulled a trick his husky football team and baseball squad failed to do and thereby lost championships. They went out in the valley conference track meet over on the broad spaces of George A. Whiting field Saturday and although not doped to win or even place second, they stepped out and copped the laurels, 3 1/2 to 57, the latter total belonging to Coach Wiley's Red Devils from up north.

Manitowoc took third honors, whereas her dash men were expected to push her in front to place one or two. The Shipbuilders scored 28 points while West Green Bay was fourth with 23 1/2. The remaining two schools in the meet, Oshkosh and Marinette picked up the remaining scores in the order named.

WOLFRAM WINS 100
Placing a couple men in most of the qualifying events was the secret of the Appleton victory, for when the boys got into the finals they garnered points when they mean something. The Orange took a first and third in the century, Wolfram and Kunitz doing the job, while the former also placed second in the 220. The 440 went to other valley schools but Warren Batley stepped out and ran one of his sensational half miles to beat out Becker just before they crossed the tape.

S. DeYoung and O'Neil staged a gallant battle in the mile, the youngster from the lake shore city beating out Syl in the last 50 feet by a splendid dash for the wire. The race was the first DeYoung had run since the Manitowoc relays and his second place honors were relished just as much as if they had been first place points.

Appleton barely missed a first in the low hurdles, Marston being forced to take a second place when he faulted going over the last place of pine. Parks followed him in third place and also took third in the high hurdles.

KUNITZ COPS BROAD JUMP
Bobbie Kunitz again put on his best bib and tucker for the broad jump and beat the field with a leap of 21 feet 1 1/4 inches. Kunitz found the going to his liking in the preliminary leaps but failed to place in the money in the finals. Heckert placed second in the high jump with Marston dividing third honors with Tachy of Oshkosh. The second place in the pole vault went to Toole of Appleton. Zmeskel, Manitowoc winning first.

Appleton failed to accomplish much in the field events, Crane getting a fourth in the shot put, Schaefer, fourth in the discus. The half mile relay race against time was won by the Appleton team composed of Kunitz, Kranhold, Batley and Wolfram. They scampered around the track in one minute and 38 seconds.

BREAK FOUR RECORDS
Four conference records were pushed into the scrap heap by the athletes. Frick of Manitowoc clipped 1.2 seconds from the old 220 record held by Hughes of Manitowoc while Sharp of West Green Bay ran the quarter mile in 2 seconds better than Paul Fischl when the latter was competing for the Shipbuilders. The battle staged between O'Neil, Manitowoc, and Syl DeYoung, Appleton, in the mile, also set a new mark. The new time is 4 minutes 53 seconds as compared with 4 minutes 59.2 seconds. The other record broken was the low hurdles, Arkens of West taking the hopes and runs in 28.2 seconds as compared with the old mark of 28.3.

Summary:
100-yard dash—Wolfram, Appleton; Schaefer, East; Kunitz, Appleton; Frick, Manitowoc. Time—11 seconds.
220-yard dash—Frick, Manitowoc; Wolfram, Appleton; Enderby, East; Shashinske, Oshkosh. Time—22.2 seconds.

New Welters Classed As Real Tough Boys

BY JOHN J. ROMANO

Copyright 1929

NEW YORK—Chief Mike Payan, an Indian junior welterweight, and Dick Ramies, a full fledged welter, under the direction of Jack Steele have opened headquarters in the east with a view of tackling the top flight men in their respective divisions and so bring westerners into the limelight.

Ramies boasts a good record listing Mushy Callahan, junior welterweight titleholder, Baby Joe Gans, Jackie Fields, Larry Brignolia and Al Wolgast. Thirty knockouts out of a total of 50 engagements speak well for the power of Dick's leathern fists.

Ramies, a Mexican, carries on the tradition of his race in that he has a terrific wallop. Checking back over Mexican fighters one finds that that race has produced some of the most terrific punchers in the game. Who will soon forget Aurelio Herrera, Mexican Joe Rivers, or Mexican Pete Everett, punchers every one of them. Coming down to the present day we have Bert Colima, who may not be a champion but still carries a threat in his right hand. Baby Sal Sorio who was defeated on points by junior lightweight champion Tod Morgan recently is also a boy who boasts a knockout streak. Sorio chalked up knockout victories in three-fourths of the contests he has taken part in.

Chief Mike Payan is not far behind his stablemate Dick Ramies when it comes to scoring over nationally known scrappers. Listed in the Indian's record are the names of Baby Joe Gans, Sam Bruce, farmer Joe Cooper, Tommy White and of course Jackie Fields.

Jackie, who fights Joe Dundee for the unquestioned right to the world's welterweight crown in July has had his finger in the 147 pound pie on the coast throughout the past two years. Every time a fighter shows promise he is thrown in with Fields and the result of the contest establishes his right to be reckoned with the leading boys throughout the country.

Steele has an able pair of battlers in Payan and Ramies and the fact that they are punchers will work in with the plans of the promoters who seek to satisfy their customers demands for contests teeming with action.

National College Track Meet Will Be Held June 7-8

Pole Vault and Century Records Expected to Fall Before Stars

CHICAGO—(AP)—A host of stars, including the most brilliant lineup of sprinters and pole vaulters in the history of the event, will battle for honors at Stags field Friday and Saturday in the eighth annual of the national collegiate track and field championships.

Eleven 1928 champions will defend their titles and all of them are almost certain to encounter difficulty. Claude Racey of Rice Institute, Texas, winner of the 100 and 200 yard dash titles last year will be forced to outfoot such exceptional sprinters as George Simpson, Ohio State, Eddie Tolan, Michigan Negro flash, Cy Leland, Texas Christian, the only college runner to win over Bracey, Jack Elder, Notre Dame, conqueror of Percy Williams of Canada, and Foster of Washington.

Williams of Southern California, Edmonds of Stanford and Pickard of Pittsburgh, will vie with Warner of Northwestern and McDermott of Illinois, who tied for the western conference title, Canby of Iowa, Otterness of Minnesota and McAtee of Michigan State, in the polevault. All have battered 13 feet and Edmond's mark of 13 feet 6 1/2 inches is almost certain to go.

Purdue's great middle distance star, Orval Martin, will be back to take a championship in either the half mile or mile. He was fouled in the 880 last year and did not finish. He is capable of giving Virgil First of Chicago, 880 champion, or Rufus Kiser of Washington, winner of the mile last year, a tremendous battle. Leroy Potter of Michigan state normal, who finished a foot behind Kiser in the mile, also will return.

Illinois, Big Ten champion, will be represented by a full team, but Stanford, which overwhelped the east at Philadelphia Saturday, will send only four men. Eric Krenz and Harlow Rother, discus and shot winners a year ago, will be back and should retain their laurels, although Anderson of Cornell and Pete Rans of Ohio State, will cause Krenz trouble. Johnny Morrison, quarter miler and Edmonds will be the other Stanford entrants.

In several events will be held Friday with the finals set for Saturday.

WILLS VICTOR IN FRENCH NET MEET

Defeats Mme. Mathieu in Straight Sets; LaCoste Beats Cochet

PARIS—(AP)—Helen Wills again has demonstrated her right to sit on the throne as queen of the world's tennis courts.

She won the women's singles championship of the French hard court tournament Sunday by defeating the No. 1 ranking player of France, Mme. Rene Mathieu, 6-3, 6-4, in the final round.

The American girl's victory not only gave her the French title for the second year in succession but showed clearly at the same time that she ranks in a class by herself among women tennis players. Mme. Mathieu put up a plucky fight but whenever there was need to apply pressure Miss Wills clearly demonstrated her superiority. She trailed three to two in the first set and then ran out four games in a row to win. In the second, Mme. Mathieu pulled even at four games all only to see the American take the next two in easy fashion for set, match and championships.

The championships come to a close Monday with the finals of the men's singles between Rene LaCoste and Jean Borotra, two of four great French Davis cup players. LaCoste had earned the right to enter the finals by beating Bill Tilden in the semi-finals on Saturday. Borotra stunned a crowd of 12,000 Sunday by eliminating Henri Cochet, ranking No. 1 player of the world in a thrilling five-set battle.

Tilden, with Frank Hunter, plan to play a few matches in Zurich and then will go to Holland for the Dutch championships beginning June 12. From Holland the Americans leave for Wimbledon for the British championships.

HAGEN WON'T DEFEND BRITISH TITLE IN '30

London—(AP)—Walter Hagen's bid for his fifth British open golf championship will be delayed at least a year.

"Sir Walter" told a crowd of admirers at Waterloo station Sunday that he would not compete in the classic next year because he is booked for a South American and world tour that will not permit him to visit Great Britain.

"But I am coming back as soon as I can and then I intend to stay a whole year in Europe, playing all the time in England and Europe," Hagen added. "I want to see many fine courses I have been told about."

ATHLETICS BEAT KAWS IN SLUGFEST AT INTERLAKE PARK

Cop Game in Ninth Inning When Run Is Forced Over Plate

APPLETON Athletics won a slugfest from Kaukauna up in Interlake park Sunday afternoon, by a 9 to 5 score. The winners started the afternoon's entertainment in the first inning by counting two runs. The Kaws then came back in the second frame and evened the count repeating the performance in the third inning to take a two run lead, 4 and 2.

Not to be denied a victory the Athletics went out in their half the third inning when Vander Linden walked, Brueggeman doubled to left, Brockhaus got safe on an error the first two scoring on Boyl's roller to short. The A's took the lead in the fifth when E. Verbrick was safe on an error, and Brueggeman doubled to score Eddie.

They counted two more runs in the sixth but saw the advantage go glimmering when the Kaws shoved three runs across the plate in the seventh inning. The Athletics brought the tie in their half of the seventh but saw the Kaws even the count again in the ninth inning.

The A's won the game on the ninth when Brueggeman doubled for the third time, DeYoung walked, Brantigan beat out an infield hit, and G. Verbrick forced Brueggeman at the plate. Herb then worked Vander Zanden for his fourth walk of the game and the winning run was pushed over the plate.

CORNERS HANGS UP VICTORY, 6 AND 5

Double by Harm Tornow in Eighth Inning Breaks 5 to 5 Tie

MURPHY'S CORNERS hung up another win in the Little Fox league Sunday when it defeated DePere at the Corners, 6 and 5. The losers opened their initial inning with one run on two hits but the Corners nine soon took care of things by showing over five runs on two walks and four hits.

DePere then countered with three runs on three hits and an error in its half the second inning and another counter in the sixth inning tied proceedings at five all. The tie remained until the eighth inning when with two out Blair of the Corners team singled and scored on a double by Harm Tornow.

Joe Mayefski was the hottest star of the day with a home run, double and single in five trips to the rubber. The home run came in the first inning with two on base.

Don Kranzusch did the teasing for the Corners team and followed eight hits striking out four. Kelmmer hit moulting duty for DePere and allowed 10 hits but fanned seven.

GRID STAR REPORTS TO N. Y. YANKEES

New York—(AP)—Kenneth Strong West Haven, Conn., star halfback, at New York University last fall, will report to the Yankees after his graduation this month. E. ended his college athletic career in a baseball game against Georgetown last Saturday. It is probable that he will be loaned out for the rest of the season by the Yankees to some club in New England.

Yankees Win Second Straight Game By Hammering Chi Sox

Chicago Cubs Fall Before Giants. 4-1 as 37,000 Watch Game

WHAT with postponements and gaps in the schedule in the two-Sunday cities of Pocat, the Sabbath program in the major leagues Sunday was reduced to exactly one half of a normal day's campaign. Both the Athletics and the Cardinals, the two league leaders, helped themselves by doing nothing at all and the cause of the Pirates certainly was not injured by inactivity which prevailed in Pittsburgh.

Although George Gehrig, added by Lou Gehrig, pitched a twelfth home run, pitched the Yankees to their second straight decision over the White Sox by 6 to 1 at the Yankee stadium, the Browns were noosed out in Washington, by 2 to 1. This defeat dropped the St. Louisans to a position five and one-half games behind the Athletics as the Yankees crept up to within seven and one-half contests of the leaders.

PIPGRAFS GIVES 6 HITS
In defeating the White Sox, Pippenger allowed but six hits. Kerr's single and Metzler's triple in the third saved Chicago from a shut out. Gehrig's homer with one on in the first helped to tear young Ed Walsh loose from the mound, but both Hal McKain and George Connolly, who followed, encountered mistreatment. Cedric Durst hammered one of McKain's shots into the right field seats in the seventh with one on base, and Earl Combs drove in two more runs in the eighth with a single.

After trailing St. Louis by 1 to 0 for seven rounds, Washington tied the score against George Blacholder in the eighth and then won out in the ninth on Joe Judge's double and two sacrifices.

GIANTS BEAT CUBS
Red Sox bats hammered a merry tune against the Barriers at Braves field Sunday at the expense of Meers, Shauts and Ferrell, and Boston won by 12 to 3. Milton Gas-ton pitched for the Sox and received batting support amounting to thirteen hits, one of them a homer by Scarritt.

With rain in both St. Louis and Cincinnati, the National League program was confined to Wrigley field where the Giants and the Cubs braved wintry blasts from Lake Michigan to amuse 37,000 Sabbath clients. The Giants put six hits together for four runs and won eventually by 4 to 3. Norman McMillan saved the men of McCarthy from a shut-out by opening the ninth with a home run, one of the five hits of Benton.

The victory gave the Giants ten out of their last eleven, and placed them three and one-half games from the top. It is important to note that the Cardinals and the Pirates have lost only two games fewer than the Athletics.

BIG 10 OFFICIALS DECIDE FATE OF U. OF IOWA TUESDAY

Three Courses of Action May Be Recommended by Special Committee

CHICAGO—(AP)—University of Iowa officials Monday were preparing for their meeting with a special committee of the Big Ten faculty group, which will hear Iowa's petition for reinstatement in the conference.

Prof. George A. Goodenough of the University of Illinois, Sunday night announced that the meeting which he, with Prof. E. French of Ohio State university, and Prof. James Page of the university of Minnesota, will represent the faculty committee would be held Tuesday here.

The group, he said, would hear the Iowa spokesman, and would then recommend a course of action to the committee. He said any one of the three recommendations might be made. They are:

That the seceding of athletic relations with Iowa by other Big Ten schools after Jan. 1, 1930, might be reaffirmed.

That the period to Jan. 1, 1930 be made a probationary one, after which the committee would make a decision on Iowa's status.

That Iowa immediately be restored to good standing in the Big Ten.

When Iowa was expelled last week the reason for the action by the Big Ten faculty committee was given as "seceding and subsidizing athletics" since that time the reason gradually was evolved into one of the charges of alumni and outside interference in the administration of athletics at Iowa.

The charges of interference developed other angles, among them reports that Paul E. Belting had been outside from the position of Athletic director because he opposed the alumni practice of boosting Iowa by bringing in Athletics and providing for their maintenance and that George T. Bresnahan, Iowa track coach, had been appointed as supervisor of intercollegiate athletics, under E. H. Lier, new director of athletics, because he was more sympathetic toward the alumni attitude.

Bresnahan Sunday night stated that he had not resigned and would not resign "until I am convinced that such a step will be for the good of the university."

RICH GIRL-POOR GIRL

By

RUTH DEWEY GROVES

CHAPTER XLVII

He reasoned that Huck was laying low until it was pretty certain there was no evidence against him. If he got the Judson girl—that might make it nice for his partners.

"All right," he said, smiling crookedly.

Huck glanced at his watch. "Order up some breakfast," he said. "We've got a long wait. And you'll have to see Gus."

"He's serving this floor," Palford replied. "I figured you'd want him. One of the regular waiters became suddenly indisposed," he added with a knowing smile, "and Gus, being a good fellow, offered to take his shift."

"Fine," Huck approved; "ring for him."

While Huck waited for Gus to obtain the information he wanted in regard to Pamela's activities that morning, Mr. Judson went to see Mildred.

He found her helping her mother to prepare lunch.

"I'm going back to the office this afternoon," she told him, while she finished laying the table.

"My office, I hope," he returned. Mildred flashed him a pleading glance.

"I appreciate your kindness," she said earnestly, "but I'd rather leave things as they are."

"Well," Mr. Judson returned and his eyes twinkled a bit, "if you're planning to be married soon perhaps it is best. But I'd like to meet the young man—Pamela told me his name is Thomas Mitchell."

Mildred glanced quickly at her mother, whose cheeks had become a nice pink.

Then she turned back to Mr. Judson and he saw that she was embarrassed.

"Pamela suggested that I give you a traveling case for a wedding present," he went on, a trifle at a loss for an explanation of Mildred's attitude. "But of course you know that it wouldn't be advisable for you to leave the country before..."

He paused, remembering Mrs. Lawrence's presence, and added, "before Stephen's case is settled."

"Inspector Markeson has told me that," Mildred agreed almost guiltily. "But you will tell me what you'd like to have most, won't you?" Mr. Judson went on. "I'd like to make you very happy, Mildred."

"Oh!" the girl exclaimed. "It's all a mistake, Mr. Judson. I'm not engaged to anyone."

And before he left he knew that his first conclusions in regard to Mildred's affections were correct after all.

Mr. Judson looked at Mildred and recalled the thought that had once flashed through his mind about Stephen. The thought that he didn't love either one of them, this grave girl or his own irresistible daughter.

He looked over Mildred's head at her mother. "You'll let me know if there is anything I can do for you?" he asked and Mrs. Lawrence thanked him hurriedly.

For half an hour after he was gone Mildred was too upset to eat or start downtown.

Finally, when Mildred had bathed her face and powdered it, she tucked an extra handkerchief into her bag and put on her hat, the telephone rang.

Mrs. Lawrence hurried to answer it. She instantly recognized Pamela's voice. Mildred heard her tell a direct falsehood.

"Why mom," she protested as her mother hung up the receiver, "how could you say I'm not here?"

"It's that Pamela Judson," her mother explained, "and I'll not have them bothering you any more today."

"Mom! Mr. Judson has been most kind to me. Didn't you hear him say he'd leave his car for me and take a taxicab back to the hotel?"

"Yes, I heard him, but considering you've done so many favors for his daughter I guess that isn't any too much on his part."

Mildred went immediately to work, but the thought that Pamela might have wanted to speak to her about something important nagged at her mind until she decided to call her up.

She glanced at her watch. It was after two. Pamela might be lunching at the hotel. She got up to go to a pay telephone in a booth. There was another girl in the office at the time and Mildred thought Pamela might want to talk to her about something private—something in connection with the police, perhaps, though it was more likely just some trivial matter. Still, Mildred thought it best to be careful.

There was a slight wait and Pamela herself answered.

Mildred explained that she knew Pamela had telephoned her home and inquired what she wanted.

Pamela was about to answer that she had intended to ask Mildred to recommend a portable typewriter because she wanted to get one for Stephen when she heard a stealthy sound at her door.

She thought it was her maid—who was being detained in the servants' dining room by Gus—but through a crack in the screen behind which she sat at her telephone desk she saw a man enter her sitting room.

The fleeting glimpse she caught of him failed to reveal his identity to her. She remembered that she had again forgotten to bolt her door—a habit she'd been trying to acquire since Harold's death.

But she had locked it! This man had entered with a key. He could not be a hotel servant.

These thoughts sped so quickly through Pamela's head that she forgot Mildred and quickly put the receiver down, off the hook, and peered out from behind the screen.

An instant later her voice shrilled a name that brought the intruder facing her with a snarl.

She saw that he held a gun and terror froze the shriek that rose in her throat.

But his name had been heard. At the other end of the wire Mildred stood momentarily paralyzed.

Then she began to call, "Pamela! Pamela!" An instant too late she realized that Huck might hear her too, and stopped.

As Mildred's voice came to the terrified girl at Huck's mercy Pamela opened her mouth to shriek his name again, but Huck was too close to her now, and if you scream you'll be dead the next second."

A tremor of nervous agony ran over Pamela's body as Huck removed his hand from her bruised lips and pressed the revolver deeper into her side.

ANNUAL SUMMER AUTOMOBILE RUSH STARTS SATURDAY

Speed Limits in Many States and Counties Moved Up 15-20 Miles an Hour

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright 1929 by Cons. Press
New York—The annual summer automobile rush and roar started Saturday throughout America, with states and counties everywhere moving up the speed limit by from fifteen to twenty miles an hour. On Sundays at least half of the 25,000,000 automobiles in the United States were on the roads and the sheer physical problem of "getting them there and getting them back has caused the John Laws to set a faster pace. No longer does the autoist get a warning admonition about speed. On the contrary he is more apt to get sharp command to "keep that old trap moving."

Trucks and buses are speeding up for two reasons. First, because the heavy, cushion tired trucks brought potent, and organized, kicks from suburban and country roadside dwellers, and, second, because lighter, swifter, pneumatic-tired vehicles can be geared into the speeding traffic stream. This is made possible, in part, by the new hydraulic brakes which added greatly to the manageability of fast moving trucks.

Failure of both federal regulation and interstate agreements as to unified traffic codes brings the usual summer confusion and uncertainty even more troublesome than before, with the generally increased pace. In the crowded eastern section, particularly any autoist who travels far has to be more adept than a trap drummer in learning and rehearsing varying codes and making changing and complicated gestures. Any person driving down from Connecticut through New York and into New Jersey which drive can be made in an hour or so, has to conform to about eleven sets of regulations.

Various national automobile clubs and state legislatures trying to straighten out this tangle, without getting very far.

DISTRIBUTES MONEY

The start of the summer season points out the fact that automobile traffic distributes its money widely, instead of piling it up at the start and at the terminus like train travel. Hence it brings both new opportunities and new problems. In the environs of every great city, and far out into the country, high class residential neighborhoods are fighting the swarms of "hot dog" refreshment, gasoline and "rest room" establishments which are mushrooming up along the roadsides. In Massachusetts, New York and Connecticut, particularly, this has precipitated something almost like civil war in dozens of suburban villages in which the issue is always the same—the passage of a zoning ordinance which will bar the invaders.

From the middle west and far west it is reported that autoists this year are tending less to patronize the automobile camps and to seek comfortable hotels and farm houses. In various sections of the country, particularly in the resort regions of the south, the hotels have been quick to seize this opening and many are installing systems of air refrigeration similar to the cooling system used in theatres. Farmers are finding the lodgings of autoists a much more lucrative sideline than the old butter and egg pick-up, and tourists now on the road report an astonishing improvement in farmhouse accommodations with better cooking, linen sheets and other comforts and embellishments unheard of a few years ago.

SEE RECORD SUMMER

The most authentic estimates are that this will be by far the biggest summer to date in the volume of automobile traffic and expenditure of money. Canada is set for the heaviest business in history. Last year, Canada's takings from United States motorists were about $200,000,000. This year, they say $500,000,000 will be a safe estimate.

The west still is pondering over the problem of the automobile hobo, and meagre reports already received are that there will be more of them this summer than ever before. They start out with a broken down automobile and cage their way along, placing themselves on the bounty of whatever city they happen to be in.

This is the usual drama of rage and riches, tin cans and rolls royces on which the curtain now rises—set to a fast tempo and with increasing problems and complexities.

MISSING GREEN BAY GIRL FOUND ASLEEP

Nightfall did not halt the hunt, the searchers having used flares and lanterns in their attempts to pick up the girl's trail with the aid of blood hounds.

Edith disappeared shortly after she had presented her father with a wreath of wild flowers, while on the picnic with her parents and brothers and sisters at a cottage at Sawyer bay, an inlet of Starvation, in the new Potawatomi State park.

The fact that her absence was discovered in about five minutes lent strength to the fear that she had been kidnapped—possibly by someone who had backed an automobile into the road, near which the girl was found, and then driven off without attracting attention.

The girl's father, a wealthy retired produce merchant of Green Bay, who had offered a $1,500 reward for any information as to his daughter's whereabouts, was searching for her elsewhere in the underbrush when she was found.

In the little group which found Edith were Chester Walker, her brother, and sisters at a cottage at Sawyer bay, an inlet of Starvation, in the new Potawatomi State park.

NEW SIZE PAPER MONEY TO APPEAR EARLY NEXT MONTH

Smaller Bills Will Save Government Money and Will Last Longer

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1929 by Cons. Press
New York—The people of the United States are going to take a lot of dirty money in the next month. This does not mean "tainted" money but refers to actual dirt and grime.

For the treasury department is going to let the dirty money stay out as long as it will, since the new small-sized bills will be issued the first week in July.

The government has already ceased to issue the old size greenbacks and those left in circulation are rapidly becoming ragged and disheveled.

The treasury expects to have all the present bills—that is, all that are not hidden in the base burner stove or sewn up in mattresses—back in its vaults or ground up and made into pulp statuettes of the Washington monument by Nov. 1. These will be replaced by $57,000,000 new bills, most of which will be of the smaller denominations.

The reduction in printing costs and paper and the longer wear which officials believe the new bills will stand will save some $2,000,000 a year. Ten times that amount would be saved if the public could be induced to refrain from crumpling the bills.

CRUMPLING WEARS BILLS

This is the main cause of wear. Once the crisp freshness of a bill is gone deterioration is rapid. It is due to the fact that the Bank of England notes are of such a size and shape that there is little inducement to crumple them that they last longer than American currency, although they are printed on much lighter paper. Crumpling the paper is almost as disastrous as crumpling it. The dirt in the creases and the minute particles of sand and other hard substances find a chance to grind through the outer surface of the bills.

Mechanics and garage men are the hardest on currency. Not only do they crumple or crumple bills but they do it with hands covered with oil or grease or gasoline. With such a coating the dust and grime which wears through the glaze finds a firm foothold. It is estimated that the popularity of the automobile, with one car to every five inhabitants, has shortened the life of all paper currency materially. Printers and the ink they smear unconsciously over their money also are hard on bills and scarce newsdealers and other trades which involve the making of change rapidly.

The dollar bills, of course, get the most wear and last the shortest time. There will be far more dollar bills issued than those of any other denomination, especially at the start in July.

The life of a ten dollar bill is about ten times the life of the dollar denomination, while the twenty dollar bills last 50 per cent longer than the tens. Comparatively few of the larger denominations are put into circulation because of the difficulty of getting change for them. Millions of dollars outstanding in the present sized bills will never be reduced or exchanged.

Some of this amount has been so thoroughly hidden that it will never be found. Misers' boards are less common than in the past but there still are people who have a distrust of banks and who have put their money into currency and are holding it "for a rainy day."

The bank tellers are already familiarizing themselves with the appearance, size, feel and texture of the new currency and the counterfeiter who counts on being able to slip imitation of the new bills into circulation is due for an unpleasant surprise. The purse and note-case manufacturers are already putting new pocketbooks adapted to the new sizes on the markets, with a square of paper inclosed which is the exact size of the bills.

KOHLER REFUSES 13 APPLICATIONS SEEKING PARDONS

Turns Down Application of John J. Galloway, Murder Accomplice

Madison—(P)—Pardon applications of 13 persons in Wisconsin penal institutions were refused by Gov. Walter J. Kohler Saturday.

Besides denial of an application by John J. Galloway, Dubuque, Ia., convicted as an accomplice in the murder of Robert Jaeger, Black Hawk (Wis.) recluse, Gov. Kohler also refused the following:

William F. Tobin—convicted in Dane county circuit court of procuring money under false pretenses. Sentenced May 7, 1925 to one to three years (indeterminate) in the Wisconsin State Prison.

GERMAN COMEDIAN TRAVELS IN COFFIN; ALMOST NEEDS ONE

Hollywood—(P)—An unusual way to get past the guards of a motion picture studio for a chance to "break into the game" may cost Charles Loeb, German comedian, his life. The actor had expressed himself from Chicago in a coffin upon which appeared the label, "statue—handle with care—value $500."

Loeb went three days without water or food and today was in a critical condition.

A baggage attendant called the police when he heard strange noises coming from the box. The coffin was opened and Loeb taken to the jail hospital. Inside the box was a note addressed to the studio casting director was found. It said, "I've tried to see you again and again but your trusted guardians always barred my way. This little trip will demonstrate what I think of a chance to show my wares—give me a chance."

Loeb said he had water in the box, but drank it the first day. A rubber hose, carefully concealed, furnished him ventilation. Physicians said he would recover.

"RENTAL" TAX SCHEME ON SEWAGE AVAILABLE

Madison—(P)—A "rental" taxation scheme for property owners to pay for sewage service in Wisconsin became available to municipalities with the governor's recent signature of a bill to that effect, the state health office announced today. The plan is effective in Ohio and Michigan and was approved by the health board and state engineering.

society before presented to the Wisconsin legislature.

Under it cities may now finance operation of their sewage disposal plants through the sale of bonds on those property owners served by the system, instead of by direct appropriation from budget funds. "This places facilities in the public utility category with gas, water and electric in respect to financing," the health board announcement said.

"Only property served directly by public sewage is subject to assessment. A city's lots not connected with the system are exempt."

Properly this bill should be classified as an equitable charge, officials taking into consideration volume and type of use made of the sewerage facilities. This industrial plants and large buildings will be taxed on a different scale than the small user, as is now done in the water, gas and electric fields.

ELCHO LUMBERMAN AT 52 STARTS TO RECOVER FORTUNE

Turns to Farming as He Waits for Courts to Settle $150,000 Suit

Elcho —(A)—The lumberman benefactor of this tiny north Wisconsin town, his fortune gone, has turned to farming and through the courts has flung a challenge to one of Chicago's largest banks.

While Elcho, changed by him from a drab lumber town to a picturesque Nuremberg village, watches with interest, Charles W. Fish goes ahead with his potato growing and maps with lawyers the plan of action by which he hopes to recoup his losses.

Fish, self-made man, and one-time leading lumber operator of northern Wisconsin, has filed suit against the Central Trust company of Chicago. He asks $150,000. The basis of his claim is that in 1926, when he needed $150,000 to meet bills he offered his capital stock in the Fish Lumber company to the bank as security for the loan. A contract effect was signed, he claims. But after the stock had been turned over, he charges that the bank failed to make the loan, bankruptcy proceedings were instituted against the company and the stock became utterly worthless. The stock value he places at $150,000.

In less than 40 years, Mr. Fish rose from sailor to lumber magnate. His faith in his home town led him to make it a "model village" which has no counterpart in the northwest.

A fire in Elcho proved the town's greatest benefit. It was after the fire that Mr. Fish, then operating four sawmills in Langlade-co., visioned the possibility of re-creating the town in "old world" town in Wisconsin. Six months after the fire, the new village had arisen.

A solid block of buildings, all connected, was constructed in German style with red-wood siding and artistically arranged shingle designs. Other structures not touched by the fire were remodelled so that the town was unified. A community hall was built. Some 110 company houses were ready for renting at a low rate, to the lumber workers. The lumberman's dream had been realized. Forty-five years ago where Elcho stands was a wilderness. In 1882 the land was bought from the government and a veneer plant started by the Jones Lumber Co. of Appleton.

LOGGED FOR 20 YEARS

For more than 20 years, logging went on until the last of the great Norway pines and hemlocks had been cut. One day in 1908 an official of the lumber company met Fish in Manitowoc, Wis.

"What are you doing?" he was asked.

"I've the hardest job in the world," was the answer. "I'm looking for a job."

A bargain was struck, and he became a clerk in a general store here. Opportunity, in the form of a distressed settler, gave him a chance to

Chrysanthemums Are Easily Grown Annual

Often bouquets of yellow "marguerites" in florists' windows are admiration of passersby. These are annual chrysanthemums. They are one of the most easily grown of all the annuals and any gardener may have a row of them for cutting very readily. As they grow quickly and come into bloom early, they are an excellent annual for late planting and a row can be sown in the vegetable garden as the successor to early radishes, lettuce or young onions.

The three finest of the yellow "marguerite" types are Morning Star, with a pale yellow halo; Evening Star, a rich yellow; and Eastern Star, a light yellow with a brown center. Others are white with crimson and gold lobes and some are rich velvety crimson self.

A packet of these beautiful annuals may be purchased for a dime and the supply of cut flowers will result. Their blooming season is comparatively short so succession should be sown every two weeks until mid-summer if a continuous supply is to be maintained.

Of late, the perennial chrysanthemum, queen of the autumn shows, has been the subject of much experimentation for gardens, early flowering races being developed. These may be raised from seed as annuals and left to their fate when the freeze-

buy his first piece of timber land. He began buying more land as other settlers moved out. Meanwhile, the lumber business seemed to be dying out. To the older operators, accustomed to the huge pines which were nearly gone, it seemed useless to log the smaller lumber. So the Jones company sold him the mill.

When he was starting as an independent operator the planing mill burned with little insurance. Soon after, it was rebuilt, the sawmill was destroyed. Those who had aided him in financing the venture became worried. He bought them out. But there was no money left to operate. He went back to Michigan and for two years worked for another lumber firm, then came back and set the business on its feet. The first year he cut 400,000 feet of hardwood. In 1926, he cut more than 50,000,000 feet.

Store clerk, sailor, telegraph messenger, and iron worker — all of these had been Mr. Fish's trade before he became a lumberman. When 18 years of age, he joined the rush to Alaska. He found no gold and lost all he had. Then for four years he was a sailor, finally quitting at Cleveland because he couldn't stand the vulgar language of a captain he worked under. From that he went to Manitowoc where a casual meeting set him on the trail that led first to a fortune and then to bankruptcy in the north Wisconsin woods. At 52 years of age, he hopes to start over again.

SCOUT EXECUTIVES RECEIVE COPIES OF FIVE YEAR PROGRAM

National Council Lists Objectives for Wide Expansion Program

A complete program for the Five Year Progressive Training courses for scout leaders, prescribed by the National Boy Scout council, has been sent to scout executives throughout the country, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive, who received his copy early this week.

The valley council of boy scouts is among the many councils throughout the country which this year started a progressive training program which is to continue until 1934. The first successful year of training here is closed with the second of a series of hikes to Center Swamp Saturday and Sunday.

The five year program involves the carrying on of the present training service to $19,791 men and boy leaders; meeting an annual increase in service demand of over 6 per cent yearly; new projects found necessary by careful surveys of the Jones report of the Council conference at Illinois, N. Y., last year.

New general tasks and objectives include quality through intensive personalized aid to local fields, through improved personnel through new emphasis on the volunteer and troop and patrol activities, and careful "check up" on results.

New projects exacted of the divisions include the division of program, operations, personnel and business. General implications of the five year program are that scouting is growing faster in service than in income; it is entering on a phase of where intensive service and research are absolutely essential; its needs have been scientifically determined.

Its board asks that those needs be met by providing the necessary resources to meet them, and action on behalf of boyhood is the final step, according to Mr. Clark.

granted master plumber's licenses last week at Milwaukee. Mr. Goldbeck has worked in Appleton as a plumber for nine years and will open his own shop at 708 N. Lemnawah st. Mr. Goldbeck was accompanied by Mrs. Goldbeck and family on his recent trip to Milwaukee, where they visited Mr. Goldbeck's parents.

ITCHING ENDS WHEN ZEMO TOUCHES SKIN

It's wonderful the way soothing, cooling Zemo brings relief to itching skin, sunburn, windburn and clears up bites, pimples and rash. Even in severe cases itching disappears almost as soon as Zemo touches the skin. To draw out local infection and clear away unsightly blemishes there's nothing better than invisible Zemo. Always keep this family antiseptic on hand. Use it freely. It's safe as can be. 35c, 60c and $1.00 adv.

1,500 American Scouts To Attend World "Jamboree"

Nearly 1,500 American boys have signed for the pilgrimage to England this summer to take part in one of the world's greatest peace-time encampments of boys that the world has ever known, according to word received here by M. G. Clark, valley scout executive.

The group will be the official representatives of the Boys Scouts of America at the World Jamboree to be held at Birkenhead, across the Mersey river from Liverpool, England, from July 21 to Aug. 13. Approximately 50,000 scouts representing 42 different nations will pitch their tents and play together for two weeks.

Your Question And Its Answer

By J. A. Pannebeck, D. C.
PALMER CHIROPRACTOR

QUESTION: I am a practicing nurse. Have nursed for thirty years. I have been suffering with stomach trouble for 10 years, tried everything in my profession with little or no relief. I would like adjustments if I thought it would relieve me. Please answer through your column. — A READER.

ANSWER: The Chiropractor knows that the life force which operates in the body over the nerves directs all the functions of the organs. The life force tells the liver when to secrete bile, and how much bile to secrete, and when to quit; it tells the stomach when to work, and how hard to work, and how much gastric juice to secrete, and how strong to make it, and when to quit; it tells the kidneys when to work and when to quit.

All this goes on when we are asleep. We do not have to think in order for the organs to work. This force tells the heart when to beat and how strong to beat. Food taken into the mouth is sent to the stomach, and from the stomach to the intestines where it is absorbed. The whole process of digestion as well as elimination, is directed by this life force which is sent out from the BRAIN over the nerves. Food will not digest, and the kidneys will not act in a body which does not have this life force. And if this life force is interfered with in any manner, there will be a corresponding interference somewhere in the body. If the nerves to the stomach are impinged on, that is pinched there will be some interference with the stomach, it will lack either a muscular activity or in the quality of the gastric juice, or the organ itself may become diseased with tumor or ulcer, or some other trouble, depending on what nerves are involved.

The Chiropractor is taught the distribution of nerves and knows just where the nerves which control these organs are interfered with. Therefore, have your spine examined by a competent Chiropractor at once.
